Agree to 'Rules' for Talks

By STEWART HENSLEY
PARIS (UPI)—The United States and North Vietnam agreed today on all details of ground rules for their preliminary talks, U.S. troubleshooter Cyrus Vance said.

He said they will be able to get down to the real business of negotiations when their full delegations meet Monday. Vance made this announcement to newsmen when he emerged from a second meeting lasting two hours 18 minutes with North Vietnam's deputy chief negotiator Col. Ha Van Lau.

"We have agreed on all procedure," Vance said. "It was a friendly meeting. The meeting on Monday will be a substantive one."

Vance said no contacts between the two delegations are planned during the weekend except to submit lists to each other of the delegates who will attend Monday's full session.

Speaking to newsmen as he left the conference building, the French Foreign Ministry's International Conference Center, Vance made a point of referring to North Vietnam as "the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese delegation left the building a few moments after Vance. They made the same statement about the results of today's meeting. It was an agreed statement.

The statement read by Vance said: "We have agreed on the procedure to be followed for official conversations between the governments of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States of America."

Nebraska Is Next For Dem Hopefuls

By WALTER R. MEARS
OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Hubert H. Humphrey and Robert F. Kennedy have shared a campaign audience—without seeing each other—and a promoter of the vice president's cause said he hoped the appearance would encourage Humphrey write-in votes in the Nebraska presidential primary.

Kennedy arrived at salad time, Humphrey came on after dessert Friday night as the presidential rivals took turns addressing some 1,600 Democrats at a $35-and-up fund raising dinner.

Humphrey got the louder, more frequent applause. He was the featured speaker, and was at the microphone more than twice as long as Kennedy.

By the time Humphrey arrived, Kennedy was on his way to Mitchell, S.D., for a round of campaigning in that primary state.

Kennedy and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., are the Democratic contenders on the Nebraska ballot for next Tuesday's primary.

Humphrey is not entered in any primaries.

But Democratic National Committeeman Marvin Werve of Omaha said Humphrey's Nebraska supporters hoped to promote a sizable write-in vote for the vice president.

Werve said in an interview he hoped the Humphrey show in Omaha would bolster what he called an informal, word-of-mouth campaign. "It's not intended to be any kind of an aggressive campaign," he said. "This is going to be spontaneous."

Dramatic Ride to Freedom For 15 Trapped Miners

By EDWIN K. WILES
HOMINY FALLS, W.Va. (UPI)—Fifteen grimy but happy coal miners rode a conveyor belt to freedom early today through a partially flooded mine shaft which had been their prison for nearly five days.

Some of them were near collapse.

Shielding their eyes from television lights at the mine entrance, seven of the miners were taken by ambulances to their homes.

The others tarried at the mine site. They were swarmed over by sobbing but jubilant wives and relatives who waited through the night.

The first miner emerged from his underground prison at 5:20 a.m. He was weak and had to be helped from the belt. The 15th miner emerged 15 minutes later.

"I'm fine, I'm fine," Glen Amick told his family as he walked to the ambulance, shaking hands of well-wishers along the way.

"They are all in good spirits," said Timothy Salvati, the mine superintendent who was one of the rescuers who entered the shaft and rode out with the miners on a 26-inch-wide conveyor belt normally used to carry coal.

Ten other miners trapped in the three-foot-high shaft since noon Monday were given up for dead. Rescue crews began a search for their bodies.

The ordeal of the 15 survivors ended approximately 113 hours after they were cut off by a flood of water which surged into the Gauley No. 8 shaft from an adjacent mine near this small West Virginia community located in Green Valley.

During the joyous reunion at the mine entrance, a knot of women huddled to the side weeping into handkerchiefs. They were relatives of the 10 men unaccounted for.

Dr. Lee Todd, the company physician who briefly examined the miners as they emerged from the pit, said they were in remarkable shape considering their experience.

One of the rescued miners, Lonnie Bennett, told officials at the mine entrance he was going home. Rescuers wanted to drive him but he refused, saying he would "rather walk to my car and do the driving myself since I've been sitting so long."

H. E. Sunderstrom, a mine official, said rescuers entered the shaft about 3:30 a.m., "and made contact with the miners" 15 minutes later.

About 300 persons—many of them wives, children and friends of the trapped men—were assembled at the mine mouth when the rescuers entered the shaft.

CONFERENCE—Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman (L), head of the U.S. peace team in Paris, confers with South Vietnamese Ambassador to the U.S., Bui Diem, at the American Embassy following the latter's arrival to observe the American-North Vietnamese preliminary peace negotiations. Diem told newsmen he will not participate in the talks, but will be briefed by U.S. officials. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

H. Pierce Day, a proofreader for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is also an artist—with a special mission of love and service. He paints portraits, without charge, for the families of servicemen from that area who have been killed in Vietnam. At present he has completed 11, with 10 more in progress, and has requests for 30 more. The response has been overwhelming and Day spends every spare minute at his easel hoping to ease the pain of those who have had a loss. He knows and understands their needs, for he has two sons and a son-in-law in service. One is a gunner on a helicopter in Vietnam.

He has had to move out of his little studio into the living room because parents and other relatives of casualties spend so much time with him. "I have to have their help," he says. "I've never seen these boys. It is a difficult thing to do." He works from photographs and snapshots and needs guidance on the color of hair, eyes and complexions. "I almost get to know these boys," he declares. "It's a wonderful feeling. What I strive for is expression, compassion, and faith."

Kingstonians Plan Retreat May 17th-19th

Harold W. O'Connor, local promoter for the Kingston Area Retreat Group, which is scheduled to go to the Jesuit Retreat House at Albany, May 17-19, stated today that early reservations indicate that this year will have more retreatants than previous years.

In answer to various queries about the highlights of the annual retreat, O'Connor points out, "that only on a retreat can the true perspective of life and reason for living be thoroughly explored. In the world of rush, worry and endless effort, how welcome is the thought of rest, relaxation and freedom from daily responsibilities. To get away from it all, even for a brief time, is a compelling desire in every human heart. How else, can we explain why hunters leave the warmth of their homes on cold dark mornings, or fishermen are up before sun up to make their way to lakes and streams or entire families pack up and fight traffic to get to the seashore or the mountains? Rest and recreation is their common goal."

There is no better place to "get away from it all" than a Retreat House. There you will find rest in surroundings planned especially for your comfort. You will enjoy recreation in its best sense. You shed cares, conflicts and the struggles of daily living. In a calm peaceful atmosphere you are quietly taken by a skilled retreat-master on an absorbing tour into a new world—the Kingdom of God," O'Connor said.

Unitarians Slate Speaker for Sunday

Guest speaker at the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County Sunday will be Fernando Valdivia, Ulster County Community College English instructor.

His topic will be Censorship. Valdivia had personal experience in this subject when he taught a book, A Coney Island of the Mind No. 5 by Lawrence Ferlinghetti in a tenth grade Ontario classroom. He was later involved in another disagreement concerning academic freedom at Valley Central School.

Valdivia earned his BA in English at the University of Miami, Florida in 1958 and his MA from the University of Connecticut the following year.

After leaving Ontario, he went to Kingsley Hall, a boys' prep school at Great Barrington, Mass., and later taught at Otisville and Valley Central High schools.

Valdivia and his wife, the former Susan Rogers, moved to Woodstock in September, 1966. She attended State University Lake Katrine.

FERNANDO VALDIVIA

College at New Paltz on a Regents Scholarship. The Unitarian Fellowship meets Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the Pickett House, Lohmaier Lane and Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

Rhinebeck Church To Start Building

The First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck has taken option on four acres of land for the building of a new church structure.

The property at Montgomery Street and Astor Drive is part of the old Astor holdings and is now owned by Beekman Acres Inc. Locally the section is known as the "old apple orchard."

The three-stage building program will exceed $125,000. First step will be purchase of the land at $15,000. Second phase will be construction of a parsonage with construction of the main church edifice as the final step.

The present church building is at the corner of Montgomery and Livingston Streets. Rhinebeck on a plot of approximately one third acre. The congregation voted to relocate when it became obvious there was no room for the ever growing Sunday school ministry. The property, a valuable business corner of the village was rezoned in April for commercial use. It is believed the funds derived from the sale of the old property will contribute largely toward the cost of the new construction costs.

During the building program the present parsonage would be used as temporary Sunday school space while the construction of the new church is underway in the third phase.

Immediate fund raising activities center on getting the necessary $15,000 for land purchase within the next 30 to 60 days. Charles A. Vonderbeide is fund committee chairman. The Rev. John Koppelaar is pastor.

Her late husband, Dr. Elmer Kettner, was instrumental in the founding of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League in the Atlantic District. He was also the author of the League Hymn: Lutheran Women One and All.

The guest speaker at the convention session May 14 will be Melvin Keischnick, former missionary to Hong Kong and, more recently, director of organizational services, the Ebenezer Church-Missouri Synod.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODY ISHMAEL

H. Pierce Day, a proofreader for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, is also an artist—with a special mission of love and service. He paints portraits, without charge, for the families of servicemen from that area who have been killed in Vietnam. At present he has completed 11, with 10 more in progress, and has requests for 30 more. The response has been overwhelming and Day spends every spare minute at his easel hoping to ease the pain of those who have had a loss. He knows and understands their needs, for he has two sons and a son-in-law in service. One is a gunner on a helicopter in Vietnam.

He has had to move out of his little studio into the living room because parents and other relatives of casualties spend so much time with him. "I have to have their help," he says. "I've never seen these boys. It is a difficult thing to do." He works from photographs and snapshots and needs guidance on the color of hair, eyes and complexion. "I almost get to know these boys," he declares. "It's a wonderful feeling. What I strive for is expression, compassion, and faith."

Kingstonians Plan Retreat May 17th-19th

Harold W. O'Connor, local promoter for the Kingston Area Retreat Group, which is scheduled to go to the Jesuit Retreat House at Albany, May 17-19, stated today that early reservations indicate that this year will have more retreatants than previous years.

In answer to various queries about the highlights of the annual retreat, O'Connor points out, "that only on a retreat can the true perspective of life and reason for living be thoroughly explored. In the world of rush, worry and endless effort, how welcome is the thought of rest, relaxation and freedom from daily responsibilities. To get away from it all, even for a brief time, is a compelling desire in every human heart. How else, can we explain why hunters leave the warmth of their homes on cold dark mornings, or fishermen are up before sun up to make their way to lakes and streams or entire families pack up and fight traffic to get to the seashore or the mountains? Rest and recreation is their common goal."

There is no better place to "get away from it all" than a Retreat House. There you will find rest in surroundings planned especially for your comfort. You will enjoy recreation in its best sense. You shed cares, conflicts and the struggles of daily living. In a calm peaceful atmosphere you are quietly taken by a skilled retreat-master on an absorbing tour into a new world—the Kingdom of God," O'Connor said.

Unitarians Slate Speaker for Sunday

Guest speaker at the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County Sunday will be Fernando Valdivia, Ulster County Community College English instructor.

His topic will be Censorship. Valdivia had personal experience in this subject when he taught a book, A Coney Island of the Mind No. 5 by Lawrence Ferlinghetti in a tenth grade Ontario classroom. He was later involved in another disagreement concerning academic freedom at Valley Central School.

Valdivia earned his BA in English at the University of Miami, Florida in 1958 and his MA from the University of Connecticut the following year.

After leaving Ontario, he went to Kingsley Hall, a boy's prep school at Great Barrington, Mass., and later taught at Otisville and Valley Central High schools.

Valdivia and his wife, the former Susan Rogers, moved to Woodstock in September, 1966. She attended State University

FERNANDO VALDIVIA

College at New Paltz on a Regents Scholarship.

The Unitarian Fellowship meets Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the Pickett House, Lohmaier Lane and Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

Rhinebeck Church To Start Building

The First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck has taken option on four acres of land for the building of a new church structure.

The property at Montgomery Street and Astor Drive is part of the old Astor holdings and is now owned by Beekman Acres Inc. Locally the section is known as the "old apple orchard."

The three-stage building program will exceed $125,000. First step will be purchase of the land at $15,000. Second phase will be construction of a parsonage with construction of the main church edifice as the final step.

The present church building is at the corner of Montgomery and Livingston Streets, Rhinebeck on a plot of approximately one third acre. The congregation voted to relocate when it became obvious there was no room for the ever growing Sunday school ministry. The property, a valuable business corner of the village was rezoned in April for commercial use. It is believed the funds derived from the sale of the old property will contribute largely toward the cost of the new construction costs.

During the building program the present parsonage would be used as temporary Sunday school space while the construction of the new church is underway in the third phase.

Immediate fund raising activities center on getting the necessary $15,000 for land purchase within the next 30 to 60 days. Charles A. Vonderbeide is fund committee chairman. The Rev. John Koppelaar is pastor.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Mother's Day thoughts . . . Most mothers never entered (or thought about) a beauty contest, but NO mother is a Plain Jane. She rarely, if ever, admits she is someone set apart; some one special; but every mother has a special identity — all her own. Many mothers feel, and with good reason, that they have been "used" . . . feel they have been "taken for granted" . . . And, let's face it — can any one deny such feeling is unwarranted?

On Mother's Day — we think back . . . We know mother IS some one special . . . a special character who constantly tried to shape our character for the best. In thinking back, we realize we can never repay her for her uncountable acts of kindness . . . her gifts of patience, love and sacrifice. Nor can we reimburse her for — the tears she shed for us in times past.

What better time is there for us to rededicate ourselves to do better — to make our lives more meaningful to God and our fellow man? Would not a message of such intent, by letter, card, phone or personal visit . . . or promise by prayer . . . be a priceless gift to her? . . .

Crush Student Revolt in Paris

By BERNARD LAMALLEE
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Gas-masked riot police crushed the latest and bitterest student revolt in the Latin Quarter at dawn today after 11 hours of tear gassing, clubbing and warding off rocks thrown by youths.

There was no immediate count of the injured or arrested among the demonstrators, who varied in number during the rally from 10,000 to 30,000.

Appeals were broadcast for taxis to evacuate the wounded. The archbishop of Paris issued an appeal for calm and top ministers of the French government met in emergency session.

The colorful Left Bank area near the Sorbonne, focus of student protests, was littered with burning, upturned cars, piles of cobblestones and shards of glass from shattered shop windows.

Throughout the long running battle between police and students, Parisian families stood on the balconies of their apartments and watched with seeming indifference.

The rioting students showed no inclination to challenge police lines at the Seine and cross to the Right Bank where preliminary peace talks on the Vietnamese war are being held by North Vietnamese and U.S. negotiators.

One of the biggest battles was fought on the west end of the Luxembourg Gardens. There students entrenched behind barricades five-feet high and six-feet thick held out for three hours before riot police made them yield.

Lines of gendarmes with grenade-launchers fired tear gas grenades almost point blank at students who raised their heads above the ramparts.

The students sang the Internationale, the Communist anthem, and waited for the charge.

Upon a shouted order the massed blue lines of police rushed forward to the top of the barricade. A few policemen who reached the summit were felled by flying paving stones, about four inches on a side and weighing more than a pound.

The retreating students set overturned cars afire to impede the attacking police and kept shouting their defiance.

Bell Opens Town of Ulster Headquarters
H. Clark Bell opened his second campaign headquarters last night in the Town of Ulster amid band music, banners, bouquets and a bumper crop of staunch supporters.

"A primary is not a ridiculous thing," he told the throng assembled outside the Albany Avenue address (across from Stewart's Ice Cream).

There will be eight or nine taking place in June and they are the basic ingredient in a free society.

"Every enrolled voter is entitled to the man of his choice," Bell said.

"Protect your right and vote in the June 18 primary."

As at the previous opening of Bell's city headquarters, the event drew a host of well-known GOP leaders and some county legislators.

Donald Parish, Ulster town chairman for 30 years was honored and brief addresses were made by Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz and co-chairmen of the Ulster Republicans for Bell Committee, Edgar P. Elliott and John O'Kelly, Edward Callahan, town chairman also spoke to those assembled.

"This is a terrific crowd," Elliott commented. "I predict Bell will carry the Town of Ulster on June 18."

"This is the opening of a headquarters for a man whom we think has great qualities to represent us in the New York State Assembly. He proved this with the many ideas he introduced before the Constitutional Convention at which he served us so well as a delegate from this area."

Assistance Needed For Homeless Family

A desperate appeal for living quarters for a family of eight made homeless in an April 26 fire was issued today by Mrs. Melinda Davis, director of the Roundout Community Center.

Mrs. Davis told The Freeman that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bolter and their six children were burned out of home and belongings in a fire at their 44 West Union Street home.

The Center has been seeking a home for them while the family is temporarily housed with another family at 69 West Union Street. So far no assistance has come through for the 34-year-old brickyard worker and his 28-year-old wife, Joan. They have five girls and a boy, ranging in age from nine to four.

Since the fire the Roundout Community Center director has been trying every means to secure permanent housing for the family as well as clothing and possessions. Mrs. Davis said they need "everything — but most of all a place to live."

Anyone who could assist may contact Mrs. Davis either at the Roundout Center during the week or at her home, 248 Catherine Street.

Borings, Tax Map Before Legislature

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

Test borings at the Community College site for Phase 2, a tax map for the county, and training for rescue squad volunteers were among the other items of business not reported in Friday's account of the County Legislature's meeting.

A resolution offered by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-New Paltz-Gardiner, authorizing the start of test borings at the Stone Ridge site of the Community College for Phase 2 was unanimously approved. The chairman was authorized to enter into a contract with the Giles Drilling Corp. to perform the work.

Map Move to Committee

A proposal to authorize preparation of a tax map for the county opened a flow of oratory from some of the legislators before the resolution was referred to committee by a vote of 25 to 6, with John C. Sangaline, Kingston Republican, voting with the Democrats. The resolution was introduced by the five Democratic members of the Legislature, Paul Brazier and Richard Thornton of Saugerties; William F. Edelmath and Orrie Riehl of Kingston, and Minority Leader Roger W. Mabie of Esopus, representing the 7th District.

Clarence Raiche, R-Kingston, who is chairman of the Tax Base Study Committee, said his committee has been working on the tax map proposal and as soon as completed would report it to the full body of the Legislature. He said the committee had been busy with the sales tax proposal.

Minority Leader Mabie urged the start of the project before fall to take advantage of the season when trees are barren of leaves. The project requires aerial photographs of the entire county land area and the operation is more efficient when leaves are off the trees.

Group Lauded

At the afternoon session, the Youth Guidance Committee was commended by the County Probation Department for its "diligent and efficient handling of problems" within the department that were affecting recruitment problems. Charles E. Schultz, director of probation, said in his letter that he had four vacancies and morale as well as efficiency within his office had been quite low, and through the efforts of the committee and the legislators, he was able to fill two of the vacancies and has a promise of another.

The Youth Guidance Committee came under sharp attack this week when they decided against subsidizing a proposed coffee house in Kingston. Robert Kelder Sr., R-2nd District said in order to obtain state funds for the project the county must first expend money and this would be matched by the state.

He said that although the committee thought it was a very worthwhile project, they could not in good conscience recommend spending taxpayer money for this purpose. There was also some thought that this would open the flood gates for subsidizing other projects of this type.

Killed in Collision

NEWFARE, N.Y. (AP) — Two drivers were killed Friday night in the head-on collision of their automobiles along Route 78, a mile south of this Western New York community.

State Police said Mrs. Grace Foley, 45, of Newfare, and Marvin R. Chambers, 42, of nearby Olcott, were alone in their cars. Mrs. Foley lived at 6127 East Ave., and Chambers at 5996 Franklin St.

The Legislature unanimously adopted a resolution introduced by Frank Muller, R-10th District, authorizing the publication of the 1967 proceedings of the former county board of supervisors.

A proclamation designating May Senior Citizens Month in Ulster County also received unanimous approval of the legislative body. The resolution was introduced by Chairman Savago.

The Legislature also designated the week of May 12 as National Nursing Home Week in Ulster County.

A resolution introduced by Robert H. Kuhlmann, R-10th District, authorizing the distribution of mortgage taxes to the towns, city and villages was unanimously adopted.

Re-Designation

The re-designation of a Community Action Agency in a resolution by Richard D. Nace, R-2nd District, was approved by a short call vote of majority and minority leaders. A public hearing was called for in the measure to be held May 23 at 7:30 p. m. in the legislator's room. The agency comes under the jurisdiction of the federal Economic Opportunity Act.

A proposal which would authorize the county to pay for a course at the community college for members of rescue squads in the county at a cost of $30 per course was referred to committee for further study. The resolution was introduced by Kuhlmann, Lawrence D. Craft, and Muller, all Republicans of the 10th District.

The session was adjourned in memory of Sp/4 Alan Pagliaroni of Accord, who on May 3 was killed in Vietnam, and USAF Sgt. Neil Bechtold, who was murdered in Puerto Rico.

State Will Consider Perrine Bridge Grant

Restoration of Ulster County's historic Perrine Bridge, one of the few covered bridges in the state, came a step closer this week with the announcement that a grant-in-aid application for the project comes up before a meeting of the State Historic Trust in Albany on May 23.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, R-Woodstock, in a letter to William G. Tyrrell, chief of Historic Site Management of the Conservation Department, said that a map of the property owned by the county at the bridge site and ownership to access roads and responsibility for the parking area will be forwarded for submission with the application in time for the May 23 meeting.

Through the efforts of the Perrine's Bridge Committee, headed by John Grady, $25,000 was made available by the former County Board of Supervisors in order to obtain matching state funds. It is proposed by the committee to secure funds for a picnic area and parking field in the area of the span through public contributions.

Assemblyman Wilson last year estimated the cost of restoration of the 120-year-old span would run between $40,000 and $50,000.

Open City Headquarters For Savago
Campaign headquarters for Peter J. Savago, GOP assembly candidate, opened last night with a good crowd of workers and well-wishers on hand to keep the ball rolling for their candidate.

"The momentum gathered for Pete at the Grant Hotel last week hasn't begun to slow down," commented Richard W. Griggs, Savago's campaign coordinator, as he observed the many persons who milled in and about the headquarters at 781 Broadway.

Last week Savago received a tumultuous tribute when more than 1,700 persons turned out for his "Countdown Dinner" at the Grant Hotel.

City chairman John Ray Mayone told The Freeman last night he was "gratified more by who is here than by how many. The cross section of Republicans here tonight represents a ground swell for Savago," he said.

The candidate himself, accompanied by his young son, on whose sweat shirt was emblazoned "Vote for My Dad, Peter J. Savago," greeted the many GOP leaders and active workers of the Republican party. Among them was Judge John B. Sterling, county chairman.

Later he said he too was gratified by the turnout. "From the people present it is quite obvious who THE Republican candidate is in this campaign."

Additional headquarters are planned for Rosendale, Woodstock and Saugerties.

Test borings at the Community College site for Phase 2, a tax map for the county, and training for rescue squad volunteers were among the other items of business not reported in Friday's account of the County Legislature's meeting.

A resolution offered by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, R-New Paltz-Gardiner, authorizing the start of test borings at the Stone Ridge site of the Community College for Phase 2 was unanimously approved. The chairman was authorized to enter into a contract with the Giles Drilling Corp. to perform the work.

Map Move to Committee

A proposal to authorize preparation of a tax map for the county opened a flow of oratory from some of the legislators before the resolution was referred to committee by a vote of 25 to 6, with John C. Sangaline, Kingston Republican, voting with the Democrats. The resolution was introduced by the five Democratic members of the Legislature, Paul Brazier and Richard Thornton of Saugerties; William F. Edelmuth and Orrie Riehl of Kingston, and Minority Leader Roger W. Mabie of Esopus, representing the 7th District.

Clarence Raichle, R-Kingston, who is chairman of the Tax Base Study Committee, said his committee has been working on the tax map proposal and as soon as completed would report it to the full body of the Legislature. He said the committee had been busy with the sales tax proposal.

Minority Leader Mabie urged the start of the project before fall to take advantage of the season when trees are barren of leaves. The project requires aerial photographs of the entire county land area and the operation is more efficient when leaves are off the trees.

Group Lauded

At the afternoon session, the Youth Guidance Committee was commended by the County Probation Department for its "diligent and efficient handling of problems" within the department that were affecting recruitment problems. Charles E. Schultz, director of probation, said in his letter that he had four vacancies in his office as well as efficiency within his office had been quite low, and through the efforts of the committee and the legislators, he was able to fill two of the vacancies and has a promise of another.

The Youth Guidance Committee came under sharp attack this week when they decided against subsidizing a proposed coffee house in Kingston. Robert Kelder Sr., R-2nd District said in order to obtain state funds for the project the county must first expend money and this would be matched by the state.

He said that although the committee thought it was a very worthwhile project, they could not in good conscience recommend spending taxpayer money for this purpose. There was also some thought that this would open the flood gates for subsidizing other projects of this type.

Mrs. Foley lived at 6127 East Ave. and Chambers at 5996 Franklin St.

A proposal which would authorize the county to pay for a short call vote of majority and minority leaders. A public hearing was called for in the measure to be held May 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the legislator's room.

The session was adjourned in memory of Sp/4 Alan Pagliaroni of Accord, who on May 3 was killed in Vietnam, and USAF Sgt. Neil Bechtold, who was murdered in Puerto Rico.

State Will Consider Perrine Bridge Grant

Restoration of Ulster County's historic Perrine Bridge, one of the few covered bridges in the state, came a step closer this week with the announcement that a grant-in-aid application for the project comes up before a meeting of the State Historic Trust in Albany on May 23.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, R-Woodstock, in a letter to William G. Tyrrell, chief of Historic Site Management of the Conservation Department, said that a map of the property owned by the county at the bridge site and ownership to access roads and responsibility for the parking area will be forwarded for submission with the application in time for the May 23 meeting.

Through the efforts of the Perrine's Bridge Committee, headed by John Grady, $25,000 was made available by the former County Board of Supervisors in order to obtain matching state funds. It is proposed by the committee to secure funds for a picnic area and parking field in the area of the span through public contributions.

Assemblyman Wilson last year estimated the cost of restoration of the 120-year-old span would run between $40,000 and $50,000.

The momentum gathered for Pete at the Granit Hotel last week hasn't begun to slow down," commented Richard V. Griggs, Savago's campaign coordinator, as he observed the many persons who milled in and about the headquarters at 781 Broadway.

Last week Savago received a tumultuous tribute when more than 1,700 persons turned out for his "Countdown Dinner" at the Granit Hotel.

City chairman John Ray Mayone told The Freeman last night he was "gratified more by who is here than by how many. The cross section of Republicans here tonight represents a ground swell for Savago," he said.

The candidate himself, accompanied by his young son, on whose sweat shirt was emblazoned "Vote for My Dad, Peter J. Savago," greeted the many GOP leaders and active workers of the Republican party. Among them was Judge John B. Sterley, county chairman.

Later he said he too was gratified by the turnout. "From the people present it is quite obvious who THE Republican candidate is in this campaign."

Additional headquarters are planned for Rosendale, Woodstock and Saugerties.

Pre-Negotiation Strike

Before the Geneva talks of 1954, the Communist Vietnamese mounted a major drive that resulted in the defeat of the French forces at Dien Bien Phu on the day before negotiations began. The victory improved the negotiating position of the Communists so greatly, they were able just about to write their own terms.

The American command was well aware of this historical factor. They defeated the massive Tet or New Year attack, which was designed to achieve such an advantage. They lifted the siege of Ka Sanh, which had been maintained for months by the Communists in the hope of scoring a second Dien Bien Phu.

With the Paris talks scheduled to begin, the Communists desperately struck again over the past week-end. This time, the allied command was ready for them. For weeks, intelligence had brought word that an attack was imminent. The pattern was to be repeated, this time to influence the negotiations in Paris.

When the wave of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks came, they struck 119 South Vietnamese cities and military installations with mortar and rocket shells. But this attack was weak. It was not followed up by ground attacks as the Tet offensive had been three months earlier. It spent itself in a few hours.

One reason was that the allied command had anticipated the assault and were able to contain it quickly. Nor were there any major urban invasions like those of January 31. "It was exactly the kind of attack we expected—a lot of smoke and not much fire," an American spokesman said.

It is too much to hope that the Communists will give up now. The allies have definitely scored the advantage in the fighting this year. Our negotiators will have that knowledge in impressing their views on the peace negotiations.

Truth About Today's GIs

The U.S. Army's director of individual training, Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais, calls today's recruit the finest American soldier of the century. A veteran of the Vietnam war, he said that often when required to fly over hostile fire or to land where heavy action is going on, "I find I draw strength from these kids who are wet, dirty, hungry and very scared, but press on, doing much more than is expected of them."

Speaking to the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia, General Zais said, "I have never seen a finer cross-section of American youth—physically, mentally and morally."

The high rate of rejection of young men for military service—more than a third of those examined—apply to drafted men. Enlistees had a much lower disqualification rate. Then there are those who are physically fit but not medically qualified for service, such as Mickey Mantle and Joe Namath, professional athletes who cannot pass the medical examinations for military service.

Today's recruit starts his training with more education and better physical assets than his predecessors. On the average he is five feet nine inches tall and weighs 150 pounds—a half inch taller and seven pounds heavier than recruits of both World Wars. Even the "long haired young man" who get in the service "redeem themselves in Vietnam."

Finally, absence without leave is less than one-half of the Korean war and less than one-third World War II. Despite what you read about desertion to Sweden, the American GI is staunchly fighting for his country today as he always was.

Rural Style Crime

Reports from rural areas on crime are not as complete as they are for urban areas, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation is able to project the statistics they get from three-fourths of the states for the balance of the country and get a fair idea of the national trend of rural-style crime. The projection for 1967 shows that rural crime rose 13 per cent, with burglary as usual leading the roll.

There were many hit-and-run crimes in rural areas—burglaries and stickups of rural gas stations and stores. Mostly, it is crime against property rather than assaults against persons. Nationally, only one crime in 12 takes place in a rural area, which means it is safer to live in the country than the city.

Nonetheless, there were increases of two per cent in murder in rural areas against 2,219 the previous year, a drop of four per cent against 3,448 forcible rape, an increase of 11 per cent against 3,910 robberies, of eight per cent against 29,325 aggravated assaults, of 16 per cent against 115,485 burglaries, of 12 per cent above the 68,525 larcenies of over $50 each, and of five per cent over the 21,625 auto thefts.

Safer though it may be in rural areas, these figures show only too clearly that safety is an elusive thing in this country, whether in rural or urban areas. Sheriffs and constables and small city police must be as alert as big city law enforcement forces to discourage the malefactors.

Henry J. Taylor Says When Hess Flew the Coop

On May 10, 1941, a Saturday evening, a ghostly man who recently celebrated his 74th birthday as the only inmate in Berlin's immense Spandau Prison performed the greatest singlehanded news story of the greatest war in the history of the world.

To the utter astonishment of Hitler, Churchill and Roosevelt alike, and of the entire incredulous world, Germany's No. 2 Führer, Rudolf Hess, landed out of the blue in enemy Scotland.

When the flash reached New York my newspapers sent me that night to Britain on the Hess story and into Germany (we were not yet in the war) to find Frau Hess if I could. I located her with her children outside Berlin.

Frau Hess was still in shock when I appeared at her house. She never again made a public statement during the war, but what she told me was true.

Hitler often sat in shirt-sleeve, kitchen-cabinet sessions with Hess, sometimes expounding together all through the night. This was the atmosphere of the Hitler-Hess relationship.

Hess long imagined that if he or Hitler could "explain things to the British leadership," England would stop fighting the Nazis and turn on Russia. Hitler sedulously ridiculed Hess's fixation, but an unexpected event at the Messerschmitt aircraft factory at Augsburg sent Hess out on his own.

Hess, 47, a competent pilot, arrived there routinely on May 1 for a required refresher course. A secret experimental long-range reconnaissance plane that had achieved a record-breaking test flight to Barcelona stood in the same hangar with his own plane.

This vehicle's capability built up the pressure behind Hess's fixation and, on the tenth day, the tantalized Hess pulled his rank on two hangar patrol officers (later shot) and flew it off.

He wrote two letters in ink on the Messerschmitt factory stationery and left them, sealed, on Willie Messerschmitt's desk—one to Frau Hess, the other to Hitler.

Hitler was at nearby Berchtesgaden. He could not reach Air Marshal Goering for several hours and this delay created additional confusion. But he did reach Frau Hess and she came to Berchtesgaden at once. She was a plain German housewife and had nothing to do with Hess's politics.

In Hitler's shock he first thought Hess had defected. Frau Hess told me that the first thing Hitler said to her was, "I would have given Rudolf anything. Why was he unhappy?"

But when Hitler and Frau Hess received the letters it was evident that Hess was not fleeing. He intended to return. Indisputably, if inexplicably, as proven by all subsequent evidence, Hess believed Churchill would allow him to do so.

He had only a map marked for Dunagel, Scotland, and a loaded revolver, in the cockpit. His navigation was perfect but he could not risk landing on a Royal Air Force airport over blacked-out Scotland. He cut the switch and bailed out.

Uninjured, the Nazi chief asked a farmer to take him to the estate of the completely baffled Duke of Hamilton. The farmer instead, hauled him to a police post at the point of a pitchfork.

There Hess demanded secrecy from the police and sent his first message to Churchill. It was: "I am here to save humanity."

To this day Hess has never permitted Frau Hess or their children to visit him in Spandau, a hardly known fact. He insists that he does not want them to see him in his imprisoned state. But, ironically, his trip saved his life. By leaving Germany so early, Hess was detached from enough Nazi war crimes to assist an escape from a death sentence at Nuremberg and draw, instead, life imprisonment.

Hitler stayed his own hand. He did not confiscate Hess's property, and Hess's wife and children continued to live in the same house as before.

There was a Nazi political angle in this. Hess was the designated chief of all national women's groups and organizations. When the No. 2 Nazi flew the coop it had a tremendous effect on female Germany.

The hausfrau in the Nazi movement all linked arms with Frau Hess in bewilderment and sympathy when this hero went west and Hitler shrewdly complied with this emotional reaction and passed up all typical Nazi retaliation.

Most disturbing to officials here is that the flow of enemy troops into the south has substantially accelerated since the President ordered a partial halt to bombing of the north last Mar. 31, when he took an initiative to open peace contacts.

The current attacks upon

Washington—Housewives don't know it, but a meat quota bill, which will boost the price of hamburger to 99 cents a pound, is now lurking in the wings of the Senate.

It will be rushed out for quick passage when Sen. Roman Hruska, Republican champion of Nebraska cattlemen, figures the public is distracted by something else.

The meat quota bill is part of a high-tariff cabal of logging Senators who are out to put quotas on textiles, meat, steel, oil, shoes and various other consumer products. It was significant that when the textile quota bill came up in March, Western cattle Senators voted for it. It was part of the price-hiking deal. Western cattle Senators have no political interest in textile mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. However, they had a secret deal with Senators from the textile states to vote for a meat quota, if the Western Senators would vote for textiles.

Actually meat quotas would affect only the cheaper brands of meat used by poor citizens, such as hamburger, frankfurters, corned beef and chopped beef. Thus, while the Poor People's march is converging on Washington and while both the Johnson administration and farsighted business leaders are trying to lift the level of the economy of big cities, cattle Senators are preparing to sneak through a bill boosting the price of the poor man's food.

Warns the National Restaurant Association: "The result of this bill would be to increase the cost of hamburgers to the consumer by 30 per cent to 50 per cent."

Boasts Sen. Hruska, author of the bill: "American beef is a premium product, delectable to the taste but not cheap to the pocketbook."

Hruska's cattlemen admit that practically all American beef is corn fed for the quality market which wants roasts, T-bone steaks and sirloin. The cheaper grades of beef are imported from Australia, New Zealand, and canned corned beef from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, and Paraguay.

One-way Trade
Thus, while the United States is urging Australia and New Zealand to give more support for Vietnam and while we are trying to promote the Alliance for Progress with South America, Sen. Hruska wants to cut off meat imports from these friends and allies.

Australia now buys $891 million of U.S. goods—far more in machinery and automobiles than it sells the United States in meat. Argentina buys $230 million worth annually, and New Zealand, $89 million.

Secret strategy of the cattlemen Senators is to sneak the meat quota bill onto another piece of legislation as an amendment, in the same way the textile quota bill was slapped onto the excise tax bill for automobiles, telephones, etc. Sen. Hruska knows that a meat quota bill could not stand on its own merits and must be a rider on another vital piece of legislation.

Mastermind of the textile quota bill is Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. Mastermind of the steel quota bill is Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind. Mastermind of the oil quota bill is Sen. Russell Long, D-La. Working together they control a sizeable block of votes.

Note: The steel and textile industries, which are lobbying for import quotas, recently announced their profit figures for the first quarter of this year. Profits had gone up 40 per cent in steel over the same period in 1967 and 30 per cent in textiles, compared with the first quarter in 1967. Yet lobbyists for these industries informed Congress that they needed quotas because they were on the brink of ruin.

A Hawk Charges Feathers
Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., has just come back from a taxpayer-financed junket to South Vietnam to turn handsprings regarding the war.

On the trip Gubser spent three days in Hong Kong visiting his tailor and a group of tailors in Vietnam. He spent only one day in Korea, where there are constant hostilities across the 38th parallel with danger of another war breaking.

But top officials have accepted the intelligence estimates of a massive influx. United Press International quoted diplomatic sources in Paris Tuesday to the effect that Hanoi intends to continue its military activity at present levels even if the United States should agree to a complete halt in the bombing, now limited to south of the 20th parallel.

The UPI dispatch reported that a Hanoi delegation spokesman said, nevertheless, that he was "very optimistic" about the prospects for the preliminary talks.

The President and his two top negotiators, W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, have held intensive planning sessions on the talks, which were scheduled to open in Paris Friday but may be delayed until Monday.

At the same time, the President and his military advisers have been studying the ground war situation in South Vietnam, including the flow of new troops from the north and continuing assaults on the cities.

"We can try to outwit them, outsmart them, outfight them," one official said. He made it plain that at some point it may be necessary to lift present prohibitions against the bombing and a possibility to increase troop levels.

The reported infiltration rate by the enemy is questioned in certain quarters here on the ground that it takes a lot of time to determine it with any accuracy.

United Press International quoted diplomatic sources in Paris Tuesday to the effect that Hanoi intends to continue its military activity at present levels even if the United States should agree to a complete halt in the bombing, now limited to south of the 20th parallel.

The UPI dispatch reported that a Hanoi delegation spokesman said, nevertheless, that he was "very optimistic" about the prospects for the preliminary talks.

The President and his two top negotiators, W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus Vance, have held intensive planning sessions on the talks, which were scheduled to open in Paris Friday but may be delayed until Monday.

At the same time, the President and his military advisers have been studying the ground war situation in South Vietnam, including the flow of new troops from the north and continuing assaults on the cities.

"We can try to outwit them, outsmart them, outfight them," one official said. He made it plain that at some point it may be necessary to lift present prohibitions against the bombing and a possibility to increase troop levels.

The reported infiltration rate by the enemy is questioned in certain quarters here on the ground that it takes a lot of time to determine it with any accuracy.

Washington—Housewives don't know it, but a meat quota bill, which will boost the price of hamburger to 99 cents a pound, is now lurking in the wings of the Senate.

It will be rushed out for quick passage when Sen. Roman Hruska, Republican champion of Nebraska cattlemen, figures the public is distracted by something else.

The meat quota bill is part of a high-tariff cabal of logging Senators who are out to put quotas on textiles, meat, steel, oil, shoes and various other consumer products. It was significant that when the textile quota bill came up in March, Western cattle Senators voted for it. It was part of the price-hiking deal. Western cattle Senators have no political interest in textile mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. However, they had a secret deal with Senators from the textile states to vote for a meat quota, if the Western Senators would vote for textiles.

Actually meat quotas would affect only the cheaper brands of meat used by poor citizens, such as hamburger, frankfurters, corned beef and chopped beef. Thus, while the Poor People's march is converging on Washington and while both the Johnson administration and farsighted business leaders are trying to lift the level of the economy of big cities, cattle Senators are preparing to sneak through a bill boosting the price of the poor man's food.

Warns the National Restaurant Association: "The result of this bill would be to increase the cost of hamburgers to the consumer by 30 per cent to 50 per cent."

Boasts Sen. Hruska, author of the bill: "American beef is a premium product, delectable to the taste but not cheap to the pocketbook."

Hruska's cattlemen admit that practically all American beef is corn fed for the quality market which wants roasts, T-bone steaks and sirloin. The cheaper grades of beef are imported from Australia, New Zealand, and canned corned beef from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, and Paraguay.

One-way Trade
Thus, while the United States is urging Australia and New Zealand to give more support for Vietnam and while we are trying to promote the Alliance for Progress with South America, Sen. Hruska wants to cut off meat imports from these friends and allies.

Australia now buys $891 million of U.S. goods—far more in machinery and automobiles than it sells the United States in meat. Argentina buys $230 million worth annually, and New Zealand, $89 million.

Secret strategy of the cattlemen Senators is to sneak the meat quota bill onto another piece of legislation as an amendment, in the same way the textile quota bill was slapped onto the excise tax bill for automobiles, telephones, etc. Sen. Hruska knows that a meat quota bill could not stand on its own merits and must be a rider on another vital piece of legislation.

Mastermind of the textile quota bill is Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. Mastermind of the steel quota bill is Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind. Mastermind of the oil quota bill is Sen. Russell Long, D-La. Working together they control a sizeable block of votes.

Note: The steel and textile industries, which are lobbying for import quotas, recently announced their profit figures for the first quarter of this year. Profits had gone up 40 per cent in steel over the same period in 1967 and 30 per cent in textiles, compared with the first quarter in 1967. Yet lobbyists for these industries informed Congress that they needed quotas because they were on the brink of ruin.

A Hawk Charges Feathers
Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., has just come back from a taxpayer-financed junket to South Vietnam to turn handsprings regarding the war.

On the trip Gubser spent three days in Hong Kong visiting his tailor and a group of tailors in Vietnam. He spent only one day in Korea, where there are constant hostilities across the 38th parallel with danger of another war breaking.

Pre-Negotiation Strike

Before the Geneva talks of 1954, the Communist Vietnamese mounted a major drive that resulted in the defeat of the French forces at Dien Bien Phu on the day before negotiations began. The victory improved the negotiating position of the Communists so greatly, they were able just about to write their own terms.

The American command was well aware of this historical factor. They defeated the massive Tet or New Year attack, which was designed to achieve such an advantage. They lifted the siege of Ka Sanh, which had been maintained for months by the Communists in the hope of scoring a second Dien Bien Phu.

With the Paris talks scheduled to begin, the Communists desperately struck again over the past weekend. This time, the allied command was ready for them. For weeks, intelligence had brought word that an attack was imminent. The pattern was to be repeated, this time to influence the negotiations in Paris.

When the wave of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks came, they struck 119 South Vietnamese cities and military installations with mortar and rocket shells. But this attack was weak. It was not followed up by ground attacks as the Tet offensive had been three months earlier. It spent itself in a few hours.

One reason was that the allied command had anticipated the assault and were able to contain it quickly. Nor were there any major urban invasions like those of January 31. "It was exactly the kind of attack we expected—a lot of smoke and not much fire," an American spokesman said.

It is too much to hope that the Communists will give up now. The allies have definitely scored the advantage in the fighting this year. Our negotiators will have that knowledge in impressing their views on the peace negotiations.

Truth About Today's GIs

The U.S. Army's director of individual training, Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais, calls today's recruit the finest American soldier of the century. A veteran of the Vietnam war, he said that often when required to fly over hostile fire or to land where heavy action is going on, "I find I draw strength from these kids who are wet, dirty, hungry and very scared, but press on, doing much more than is expected of them."

Speaking to the American Academy of Political and Social Science in Philadelphia, General Zais said, "I have never seen a finer cross-section of American youth—physically, mentally and morally."

The high rate of rejection of young men for military service—more than a third of those examined—apply to drafted men. Enlistees had a much lower disqualification rate. Then there are those who are physically fit but not medically qualified for service, such as Mickey Mantle and Joe Namath, professional athletes who cannot pass the medical examinations for military service.

Today's recruit starts his training with more education and better physical assets than his predecessors. On the average he is five feet nine inches tall and weighs 150 pounds—a half inch taller and seven pounds heavier than recruits of both World Wars. Even the "long haired young man" who get in the service "redeem themselves in Vietnam."

Finally, absence without leave is less than one-half of the Korean war and less than one-third World War II. Despite what you read about desertion to Sweden, the American GI is staunchly fighting for his country today as he always was.

Rural Style Crime

Reports from rural areas on crime are not as complete as they are for urban areas, but the Federal Bureau of Investigation is able to project the statistics they get from three-fourths of the states for the balance of the country and get a fair idea of the national trend of rural-style crime. The projection for 1967 shows that rural crime rose 13 per cent, with burglary as usual leading the roll.

There were many hit-and-run crimes in rural areas—burglaries and stickups of rural gas stations and stores. Mostly, it is crime against property rather than assaults against persons. Nationally, only one crime in 12 takes place in a rural area, which means it is safer to live in the country than the city.

Nonetheless, there were increases of two per cent in murder in rural areas against 2,219 the previous year, a drop of four per cent against 3,448 forcible rape, an increase of 11 per cent against 3,910 robberies, of eight per cent against 29,325 aggravated assaults, of 16 per cent against 115,485 burglaries, of 12 per cent above the 68,525 larcenies of over $50 each, and of five per cent over the 21,625 auto thefts.

Safer though it may be in rural areas, these figures show only too clearly that safety is an elusive thing in this country, whether in rural or urban areas. Sheriffs and constables and small city police must be as alert as big city law enforcement forces to discourage the malefactors.

Henry J. Taylor Says When Hess Flew the Coop

On May 10, 1941, a Saturday evening, a ghostly man who recently celebrated his 74th birthday as the only inmate in Berlin's immense Spandau Prison performed the greatest singlehanded news story of the greatest war in the history of the world.

To the utter astonishment of Hitler, Churchill and Roosevelt alike, and of the entire incredulous world, Germany's No. 2 Führer, Rudolf Hess, landed out of the blue in enemy Scotland.

When the flash reached New York, my newspapers sent me that night to Britain on the Hess story and into Germany (we were not yet in the war) to find Frau Hess if I could. I located her with her children outside Berlin.

Frau Hess was still in shock when I appeared at her house. She never again made a public statement during the war, but what she told me was true.

Hitler often sat in shirt-sleeve, kitchen cabinet sessions with Hess, sometimes expounding together all through the night. This was the atmosphere of the Hitler-Hess relationship.

Hess long imagined that if he or Hitler could "explain things to the British leadership," England would stop fighting the Nazis and turn on Russia. Hitler sedulously ridiculed Hess's fixation, but an unexpected event at the Messerschmitt aircraft factory at Augsburg sent Hess out on his own.

Hess, 47, a competent pilot, arrived there routinely on May 1 for a required refresher course. A secret experimental long-range reconnaissance plane that had achieved a record-breaking test flight to Barcelona stood in the same hangar with his own plane.

This vehicle's capability built up the pressure behind Hess's fixation and, on the tenth day, the tantalized Hess pulled his rank on two hangar patrol officers (later shot) and flew it off.

He wrote two letters in ink on the Messerschmitt factory stationery and left them, sealed, on Willie Messerschmitt's desk—one to Frau Hess, the other to Hitler.

Hitler was at nearby Berchtesgaden. He could not reach Air Marshal Goering for several hours and this delay created additional confusion. But he did reach Frau Hess and she came to Berchtesgaden at once. She was a plain German housewife and had nothing to do with Hess's politics.

In Hitler's shock he first thought Hess had defected. Frau Hess told me that the first thing Hitler said to her was, "I would have given Rudolf anything. Why was he unhappy?"

But when Hitler and Frau Hess received the letters it was evident that Hess was not fleeing. He intended to return. Indisputably, if inexplicably, as proven by all subsequent evidence, Hess believed Churchill would allow him to do so.

He had only a map marked for Dunsavel, Scotland, and a loaded revolver, in the cockpit. His navigation was perfect but he could not risk landing on a Royal Air Force airport over blacked-out Scotland. He cut the switch and bailed out.

Uninjured, the Nazi chief asked a farmer to take him to the estate of the completely baffled Duke of Hamilton. The farmer instead, hauled him to a police post at the point of a pitchfork.

There Hess demanded secrecy from the police and sent his first message to Churchill. It was: "I am here to save humanity."

To this day Hess has never permitted Frau Hess or their children to visit him in Spandau, a hardly known fact. He insists that he does not want them to see him in his imprisoned state. But, ironically, his trip saved his life. By leaving Germany so early, Hess was detached from enough Nazi war crimes to assist an escape from a death sentence at Nuremberg and draw, instead, life imprisonment.

Hitler stayed his own hand. He did not confiscate Hess's property, and Hess's wife and children continued to live in the same house as before.

There was a Nazi political angle in this. Hess was the designated chief of all national women's groups and organizations. When the No. 2 Nazi flew the coop it had a tremendous effect on female Germany.

The hausfrau in the Nazi movement all linked arms with Frau Hess in bewilderment and sympathy when this hero went stale and Hitler shrewdly complied with this emotional reaction and passed up all typical Nazi retaliation.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The old Chevy just fell apart. It was like a death in the family. My sister Adele phoned my father and said: "Dad, brace yourself. The car is gone." He clutched his chest with his free hand and said: "No! What happened?" Adele said: "Old age and complications."

It was, as I recall, 13 years of age. One prays that it is bowling along merrily on some misty highway in the sky, gaskets popping and steam pluming from the radiator. Twice the speedometer passed the 99,999 mile mark. Not once did it decline when my father turned the key and said: "Go! Rain, snow, sleet, blazing summer sun—it ignored all of them."

Big John was a young fellow of 71 when he bought it. It was yellow, a hard-top with four doors and he placed my mother in the right front seat, closed the door gently, and said: "Jenny, you and I are going to begin to live." No one appreciates an automobile like my father. He is one of the few men left who enjoys going for a "drive."

When it was young, that Chevrolet was backed into a garage off 72nd Street, North Bergen, N.J., every evening. For his birthday one year, my mother bought him a new set of dusting rags. The car never had a wrinkle fender, a chip of paint. For the engine head and fan belt, we used a feather duster. Her oil was changed regularly; the outside sparkled in sunlight and the inside was covered with clear plastic.

Mom asked why he didn't take it to bed with him. "Have you lost your senses?"

he said. "You know I can't lift that car." At the time, he was credit manager for the Ridgewood Newspapers, and the Chevy rolled over the hills and highways, waiting quietly while he interviewed merchants and settled overdue accounts.

In the summer it traversed the trails of the Catskill Mountains, never straining and sometimes it was seen at the Jersey Shore. As a driver, he was cautious. Mom was the assistant engineer. When, three blocks ahead, a car pulled out of a crossroad, my father would gently tap the brakes and growl: "Didn't you see him pull out? Why don't you tell me?" She would wait grimly for a little while, and when another car pulled out, she'd point and say: "A car is pulling out. He would grind his teeth and say: 'I see it. Do you think I'm blind?'"

Once, he took it all the way to Florida. A week before the trip, he had more maps than a military commander. They went south. According to his plan, he was 70 minutes late arriving at Flagler Street, Miami. It seems a big church ended services in Georgia as my father was barreling through at 40 miles per hour, and he never made up the time.

After my mother died, he kept the Chevy but he made no more trips. It was used for work until he was 77. Then he wrote a note to the Motor Vehicle Department: "At my age I think I am a little too old and too nervous to drive. Here-with is my driver's license. Sincerely, John M. Bishop." He gave the car to Adele's husband, Emil. "It's yours," he said, handing the keys over. "The snow tires are on the left side of the garage." The mileage meter kept going up and up. Now and then, Emil took my father for a Sunday drive and he would sit and stare out the windshield at the long green valleys and the forbidding hills and he kept quiet and rekindled his own memories.

Once in awhile, he would break the silence to roar: "Emil, watch out for that maniac on your left." Or, more quietly: "You got a red too blocks ahead." He was super-careful. Away back in 1925, when he had learned to drive, he tried to make a U turn in a shopping area, and no matter how many times he pulled forward and back, he couldn't make it. A cop walked up, leaned in the window, and said sweetly: "Mister, what you need is a big field."

A few years ago, Big John moved in with me. The hair was snowy, the head slightly down, the steps slower. Emil worked on the railroad and the old Chevy was used to carry chunks of splintered lumber and bits of scrap metal.

It never saw a garage again. Day and night, in wintry blasts and shimmering heat, it sat at the curb. The plugs were cracked, the oil was dark, the car shook like a bird awakening at dawn. The yellow was faded in spots and the wipers screeched in the rain.

Last week, the word came: "Dad, brace yourself. The car is gone." He hung up sadly and shook his head. "Now he said, 'if Emil had given that car a little care...'"

Drew Pearson Says Senator Hruska Readies Bill to Aid Cattlemen

WASHINGTON—Housewives don't know it, but a meat quota bill, which will boost the price of hamburger to 99 cents a pound, is now lurking in the wings of the Senate. It will be rushed out for quick passage when Sen. Roman Hruska, Republican champion of Nebraska cattlemen, figures the public is distracted by something else.

The meat quota bill is part of a high-tariff cabal of logging Senators who are out to put quotas on textiles, meat, steel, oil, shoes and various other consumer products. It was significant that when the textile quota bill came up in March, Western cattle Senators voted for it. It was part of the price-hiking deal. Western cattle Senators have no political interest in textile mills in New England, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. However, they had a secret deal with Senators from these textile states to vote for a meat quota, if the Western Senators would vote for textiles.

Actually meat quotas would affect only the cheaper brands of meat used by poor citizens, such as hamburger, frankfurters, corned beef and chopped beef. Thus, while the Poor People's march is converging on Washington and while both the Johnson administration and farsighted business leaders are trying to lift the level of the economy of big cities, cattle Senators are preparing to sneak through a bill boosting the price of the poor man's food.

Warns the National Restaurant Association: "The result of this bill would be to increase the cost of hamburgers to the consumer by 30 per cent to 50 per cent."

Boasts Sen. Hruska, author of the bill: "American beef is a premium product, delectable to the taste but not cheap to the pocketbook."

Hruska's cattlemen admit that practically all American beef is corn fed for the quality market which wants roasts, T-bone steaks and sirloin. The cheaper grades of beef are imported from Australia, New Zealand, and canned corned beef from Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, and Paraguay.

Thus, while the United States is urging Australia and New Zealand to give more support for Vietnam and while we are trying to promote the Alliance for Progress with South America, Sen. Hruska wants to cut off meat imports from these friends and allies.

Australia now buys $891 million of U.S. goods—far more in machinery and automobiles than it sells the United States in meat. Argentina buys $230 million worth annually, and New Zealand, $89 million.

Secret strategy of the cattlemen Senators is to sneak the meat quota bill onto another piece of legislation as an amendment, in the same way the textile quota bill was slapped onto the excise tax bill for automobiles, telephones, etc. Sen. Hruska knows that a meat quota bill could not stand on its own merits and must be a rider on another vital piece of legislation.

Mastermind of the textile quota bill is Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C. Mastermind of the steel quota bill is Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind. Mastermind of the oil quota bill is Sen. Russell Long, D-La. Working together they control a sizeable block of votes.

Note: the steel and textile industries, which are lobbying for import quotas, recently announced their profit figures for the first quarter of this year. Profits had gone up 40 per cent in steel over the same period in 1967 and 30 per cent in textiles, compared with the first quarter in 1967. Yet lobbyists for these industries informed Congress that they needed quotas because they were on the brink of ruin.

A Hawk Changes Feathers. Rep. Charles S. Gubser, R-Calif., has just come back from a taxpayer-financed junket to South Vietnam to turn handsprings regarding the war.

Gubser is a long-time hawk, and no later than February of this year proposed using low-grade tactical nuclear weapons in Vietnam. Today he has completely reversed himself.

"I do not favor the use of nuclear weapons of any kind," he recently told a group of Stanford University scientists. "I do not foresee circumstances where the use of tactical nuclear weapons would be appropriate in the future." Gubser emphatically protested.

"I do not now advocate, nor have I ever advocated, irrational acts which could lead to nuclear war," said the frightened California Congressman.

The reason for Gubser's sudden right-about-face on nuclear weapons is the fact that the former mayor of San Jose, Joseph L. Pace, is challenging him in the Republican primary. Also Gubser has found a lot of peace sentiment in his California district.

As a result, he has now proclaimed that the whole "war was a mistake," and has said: "I oppose more troops for Vietnam..."

After the gyroscoping Congressman came home to find a peace candidate running against him in his own party, he tried to line up two dozen businessmen to fly to Vietnam to study the war. This would have meant a free flight for himself. But the businessmen reneged. Gubser then appealed to his friend Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, who came to his rescue. Rivers, a Democrat, was glad to help out a Republican colleague. Rivers himself is a great junketeer, and he okayed a free trip for his California Republican friend.

On the trip Gubser spent three days in Hong Kong visiting his tailor and only four days in Vietnam. He spent only one day in Korea, where there are constant hostilities across the 38th parallel with danger of another war breaking.

But top officials have accepted the intelligence estimates of a massive influx. United Press International quoted diplomatic sources in Paris Tuesday to the effect that Hanoi intends to continue its military activity at present levels even if the United States should agree to a complete halt in the bombing, now limited to south of the 20th parallel.

LBJ May Respond Militarily To N. Vietnamese Infiltration

By PETER LISAGOR (Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is reported ready to "bite the bullet" on military measures to counter North Vietnam's record infiltration of men and supplies.

Emphasizing the gravity of the Hanoi threat, government sources say that the President and his top advisers have been confronted with a "very serious problem" of maintaining the present balance of forces in South Vietnam.

Their analysis contains a strong hint of possible escalation by the United States, if the North Vietnamese persist in their infiltration rate, estimated at 35,000 men in April and nearly 7,000 during the first five days of May.

Hanoi's intentions are unclear here. But whether they are directed at strengthening the bargaining position in Paris or are part of a "fight and talk strategy," the United States must face up to the threat to Gen. William C. Westmoreland's command, the sources say.

Most disturbing to officials here is that the flow of enemy troops into the south has substantially accelerated since the President ordered a partial halt to bombing of the north last Mar. 31, when he took an initiative to open peace contacts.

The current attacks upon

Saigon and other South Vietnamese cities have deepened concern that the President may be forced to end the restraint on bombing, as well as upon the levels of U. S. troop strength in the south.

Despite a determination by the President to take no steps that would jeopardize the chances for a peaceful settlement, he may be compelled to order retaliatory measures as an elementary act of prudence, these sources say.

The Hanoi action in speeding up the infiltration was not expected. However, it has created the very situation that top civilian and military officials feared—a serious challenge to the security of U. S. forces.

The administration is aware of the political reaction, both at home and abroad, if it becomes necessary to take stern counter-measures in Vietnam.

The President is free of the political restraints that would have prevailed if he had not removed himself as a candidate for re-election. It is thought not unlikely, however, that Hanoi has reasoned that opposition to the war in this country will stay Mr. Johnson's hand.

The reported infiltration rate by the enemy is questioned in certain quarters here on the ground that it takes a lot of time to determine it with any accuracy.

More Jobs for College Graduates

By WILLIAM J. EATON (Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — A bumper crop of college graduates will find more jobs than it can fill at the highest starting salaries ever offered.

That is this year's employment forecast from the Department of Labor for the 820,000 young men and women who will receive sheepskins in 1968.

Business firms, realizing they must compete with graduate schools and the armed services, have raised average starting pay about 5 per cent.

A beginning engineer with a bachelor's degree may expect to be paid $9,000 a year. Those with masters' degrees are being offered $10,000 or more to start.

Young chemists, mathematicians, biologists and others in the science field find themselves in similar positions. The typical liberal arts graduate who begins as a trainee or salesman may get $7,200 to start. Accountants may expect $8,400. Teachers lag in pay, with new graduates in the $5,000 to $6,000 bracket.

Negro graduates are in great demand and are receiving more job offers at higher salary levels than a year ago, the department reported. Women's prospects are bright if they have specialized in mathematics, accounting, data processing or the natural sciences.

The demand is up for college men and women to plan and carry out public and private programs to help the poor in the cities and rural areas.

Even men threatened by the draft are being put on payrolls.

"Exceedingly bright," is the way the Labor Department sums up the 670,000 bachelor's degree recipients and another 150,000 who are in line for advanced degrees.

The federal government, the report noted, will be putting more than 25,000 college graduates on the payroll this year, with starting salaries ranging from $5,565 to $11,843 a year. The Peace Corps also needs volunteers. They are paid no salary but receive a living allowance and get severance pay of $1,800 after a two-year stint overseas.

Earlier afternoon sessions at the conclave featured a discussion of a plan for notification of all members immediately when a check is being returned due to insufficient funds. Kenneth Pratt, executive vice president of the Kingston Trust Company chaired the discussion.

Fred Terwilliger, executive vice president of the Valley National Bank of Walkkill, outlined a plan for mutual notification of fraudulent schemes being perpetrated in any community.

Legal Battle Eliminated

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (UPI)—Chiropractor Bernard M. Levy recently changed his religion. The switch ended eight months' official suspension from school for his seven-year-old daughter, Levy, formerly a Jew, had refused to allow his daughter, Sara, to receive polio shots, as required by law. So Sara was officially suspended from second grade on Sept. 21, 1967. School authorities allowed her to attend classes, but marked her absent.

Last April 1, Levy became a member of the Universal Religious Brotherhood, a religion recognized by the state and one which prohibits inoculations.

State law allows a student to miss the shots if they are against his religion. They, thus, became against Levy's religion, and Sara has been reinstated in her class.

The decision was announced Thursday night at a meeting of the Middletown school board. It eliminated the need for a legal battle scheduled to take place before the state education commissioner May 28 in Albany.

Ulster Financial Council in Conclave, Official Word Given on Mortgage Rate

In accordance with the recent law signed by President Johnson and appropriate regulations issued by the FHA and VA commissioners, all savings banks, savings and loan associations and commercial banks are now permitted to boost the annual interest rate on government backed home mortgages to 6 1/2 per cent.

The announcement was made by Dewees W. DeWitt, president of the Ulster Financial Council at the conclusion of an afternoon session of the first semi-annual meeting of the newly formed Ulster Financial Council in conclave at Williams Lake Hotel recently.

John B. Sterley, legal counsel for the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, confirmed the legality of the move and advised that the interest increase was legally in accord with the regulations of the usury statutes of the State of New York.

More than 100 members of the UFC, an organization of the commercial and savings banks and savings and loan associations of Ulster County, heard the explanation that the new ceiling applies to all loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

Earlier afternoon sessions at the conclave featured a discussion of a plan for notification of all members immediately when a check is being returned due to insufficient funds. Kenneth Pratt, executive vice president of the Kingston Trust Company chaired the discussion.

Fred Terwilliger, executive vice president of the Valley National Bank of Walkkill, outlined a plan for mutual notification of fraudulent schemes being perpetrated in any community.

Word of the operation of regional committees on co-operative non-productive advertising operating in the Kingston-Saugerties area was presented by Harry Rigby of the State of New York National Bank. A program for the organization of the New Paltz-Highland, Ellenville and Walkkill-Walden groups, was discussed.

A cocktail hour preceded the dinner meeting at which Herman L. Thieme, assistant manager of personnel at Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company of New York City, was guest speaker. His topic was The Improvement of Employer-Employee Relations.

Legal Battle Eliminated

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (UPI)—Chiropractor Bernard M. Levy recently changed his religion. The switch ended eight months' official suspension from school for his seven-year-old daughter. Levy, formerly a Jew, had refused to allow his daughter, Sara, to receive polio shots, as required by law. So Sara was officially suspended from second grade on Sept. 21, 1967. School authorities allowed her to attend classes, but marked her absent.

Last April 1, Levy became a member of the Universal Religious Brotherhood, a religion recognized by the state and one which prohibits inoculations.

State law allows a student to miss the shots if they are against his religion. They, thus, became against Levy's religion, and Sara has been reinstated in her class.

The decision was announced Thursday night at a meeting of the Middletown school board. It eliminated the need for a legal battle scheduled to take place before the state education commissioner May 28 in Albany.

'The Crucible' Will Be Presented Tonight

Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," a story of the Salem witch trials of 1692, will be presented tonight by the New Paltz Players at the McKenna Theater, State University College, New Paltz. Curtain time is 8:30.

The play is directed by Dr. Charles E. Scott.

Among the cast of 10 women and 11 men in the Miller play, three generations of thought and action are explored. The stolid first generation fully accepts the teachings of their ministers; the second generation questions the total validity of what they hear in their Church; and the third, a rebellious young headstrong group would avoid deserved punishment by accusing good women of witchcraft.

Raymond T. Kurd, College Theatre designer, has sketched a stage design of pine planks and cedar shingles to create a non-realistic setting for the Miller play. The set was constructed by the Stagecraft class under the supervision of Charles Otis Swezey, a junior student, who assumed the technical director position as a project for his Seminar in Technical Theatre and Design.

The box office is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

'The Crucible' Will Be Presented Tonight

Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," a story of the Salem witch trials of 1692, will be presented tonight by the New Paltz Players at the McKenna Theater, State University College, New Paltz. Curtain time is 8:30.

The play is directed by Dr. Charles E. Scott.

Among the cast of 10 women and 11 men in the Miller play, three generations of thought and action are explored. The stolid first generation fully accepts the teachings of their ministers; the second generation questions the total validity of what they hear in their Church; and the third, a rebellious young headstrong group would avoid deserved punishment by accusing good women of witchcraft.

Raymond T. Kurd, College Theatre designer, has sketched a stage design of pine planks and cedar shingles to create a non-realistic setting for the Miller play. The set was constructed by the Stagecraft class under the supervision of Charles Otis Sweezy, a junior student, who assumed the technical director position as a project for his Seminar in Technical Theatre and Design.

The box office is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Scheduled at 8:15 p.m. at Kingston High School Auditorium, the program will have as its special featured group, the United States Military Academy (West Point) Glee Club, Edward L. Sprute, Mendelssohn Club president, noted that Mrs. Beck will sing the soprano obligato in "The Omnipotence" against a vocal backdrop of about 200 male voices.

She also received awards from the Pittsburgh Concert Society and the Opera Workshop at the Penn College for Women. A resident of Poughkeepsie for 14 years, Mrs. Beck continues training with Mrs. Earl Spencer. She served as soprano soloist with the Community Methodist Church Quartet for 12 years. She has been a soloist and member of the Poughkeepsie Community Mixed Chorus since her arrival at Poughkeepsie and has been guest soloist at numerous Hudson Valley and New Jersey music events. Mrs. Beck has been in the past, a soloist with the Euterpe Club and with the Kingston Mendelssohn Club, and will join them again in the Massed Concert Chorus which will include, along with the West Point Glee Club, Apollo Club of Middletown; Catskill Glee Club of Catskill; IBM Male Chorus of Poughkeepsie; and Amphion Club of Newburgh.

MRS. ELIZABETH GROSSMAN BODINE, 70, of Velva, N. D., holds a bouquet during the annual luncheon of the American Mothers Committee in New York City May 9. At the luncheon, Mrs. Bodine, a farm woman who has 18 children and 75 grandchildren, was named "American Mother of the Year" for 1968. Her 10 sons are college graduates and her eight daughters either attended college or business schools. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Mother of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Bodine, 1968 Mother of the Year, raised her 18 children on a farm in North Dakota. Saying too much freedom is not good for children, she believes that it is better when they have chores to do.

Mrs. Bodine's guidance has paid off. The numerous offspring of this 70-year-old native of Poland have made their mark in America. They include a Navy officer, a retired Air Force colonel, three teachers, two nurses, a lawyer, a football coach and a baseball coach.

Her family, including 80 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, is spread from Minnesota to California although six of the children make their homes in North Dakota.

When they are not at their own home in Velva, N.D., Mrs. Bodine and her husband, Frank, asked her advice for young mothers today. Mrs. Bodine replied: "I think religion is the basis of a family. Religion came first in our house."

She said that mothers and children today have more freedom because of the conveniences of modern life. She recalled that electricity did not come to their farm until 1945.

Mrs. Bodine said she was particularly proud that 16 of her 18 children had attended college. She frowns on miniskirts and hippies.

Teenagers in Office Jobs

— Part VIII —

By ELIZABETH L. POST

(This is the eighth of a series of 12 articles excerpted from "The Emily Post Book of Etiquette for Young People," by Elizabeth L. Post, published by Funk & Wagnalls.)

The first day on any job, but most especially the very first job, is one of the scariest, most confusing, loneliest, most exciting experiences you can have. You feel like an idiot.

If you can remember that everyone knows you're new, and no one expects you to absorb all the hows, whos, and whats in the first day, you will get through that hard time much more easily. Ask questions when you really need to, not just out of nervousness, and respond with friendliness to any openings the other employees give you. Don't bubble or gush, and don't push.

Your Attitude

Even more important than your skill at your specific work—although I certainly don't mean to understate that—is your attitude toward your job. Ask yourself the following questions, and, if you can't honestly and unreservedly answer "yes" to every one of them, you should take a good look at whether you're earning your keep.

Can you truly say that you are not "on the make" for your boss or other male employees?

Do you firmly refuse to discuss your boss, your fellow workers, and your company's private business with outsiders?

Do you avoid gossip with coworkers?

Do you leave your personal problems at home?

Would you, without grumbling, do any out-of-the-ordinary work your boss might need in a hurry?

Would you give a few extra minutes of your time to finish up a job after closing time?

Do you take an interest in the appearance of the office?

Do you try to keep a smile on your face, no matter how black a mood it's hiding?

Accuracy

It's hard for most of us who haven't worked in an office to recognize the importance of accuracy. It is important, and lack of it is one of the main causes of criticism frequently aimed at young employees. Neglecting to write down a telephone message may result in the loss of a sale, and taking a phone number inaccurately can cause endless delay and irritation. If your job requires shorthand, be sure that you can read your own notes. It's awfully annoying to an executive if a girl constantly comes in and says, "What was the word after 'dividend'?" Mr. Brankhead? I can't seem to read what I have here."

Promptness

Promptness isn't only arriving at your office on (or before) the dot; it's also answering the phone before ringing drives everyone wild, and responding to your superior's call or buzzer before he's gnashing his teeth.

Don't cheat on lunch hours. Your hours will undoubtedly be made very clear to you, and if your boss leaves at 12:00 and says he won't be back until 2:00, that's no reason for you to feel entitled to the same privilege. You'll be terribly embarrassed the day you come back at 1:55 and find the man fuming because his unexpected arrival at 1:30 caught you still out at lunch.

Coffee breaks are a great institution—within limits. Use them to relax, enjoy them to chat, but don't abuse the privilege by extending them until there is more time off than time-on.

Be Organized

People who keep themselves and their possessions neat are almost always orderly in every way. Look at the girl with uncombed hair and a spotted blouse and then look at her desk. I'd be willing to bet it's a hodge-podge of scattered papers, loaded ash trays, and general clutter.

There are other habits which are worth cultivating. A few are:

Clear your desk before leaving at night.

Emptying your ash tray frequently.

Not leaving empty coffee cups, paper napkins, candy wrappers, etc. on your desk.

If for any reason you cannot possibly get to work, call and let your superior know.

Remember that the phone on your desk is not there for your personal use. Although some of us like to use it for making or receiving an occasional call, most of us object to a client who is unable to get through to him because you had the line tied up discussing last night's date.

Retail Jobs

So many boys and girls take summer of after-school jobs in stores that I'd like to offer a few suggestions that could lead to a raise or even a promotion.

Know your products and where to find them. It doesn't matter if it's a supermarket or a five-and-dime; when a customer asks, "Where can I find the cereal," or "the nail polish," or "parakeet food," you should be able to give the information instantly. Your supervisor won't appreciate having to stop to tell where it is, and the customer doesn't want to wait while you go to hunt it down.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Nearly four billion dollars is going to be spent this year by the Federal Government for educational programs of one sort or another. Even in an age when we no longer think in millions, four billion dollars is a lot of money. A list of the various programs would be dry as dust. Sometimes the spending of large sums is more revealing in terms of a few individuals, just the people who need help and get it.

For example, a first grader named Harry weighed 130 pounds. Too fat, you will say, and you will be right. Harry was so big and fat that his classmates laughed at him, left him out of their games, made him the butt of their jokes. Harry was miserable until, when summer came around, he fell into the hands of a couple of understanding folks (paid for by tax money) and they coaxed 30 pounds off Harry. When school opened he was still big, but his size was an asset instead of a liability. When the games needed weight, Harry was there to provide it.

Then there was Teddy, a good student but his people were poor. He wanted to go to college but knew he couldn't make it. There was a grant for Teddy (tax money again) and a loan.

He is finishing his freshman year at a good college now. He wants to be a teacher. Teachers are what we need today.

And David, 10 years old, black, timid, scared looking. No father and a mother who works out by the day. The neighborhood bored him but it was all he had for entertainment. David was not getting on well but he had a secret ambition. He wanted to be a doctor! It was two VISTA volunteers who took David in hand, introduced him to special after school classes in biology and chemistry, showed him that he could spend his summer at the Science Center. A doctor? David just might make it. We need doctors, too.

A deaf child who was able to profit by an operation on her ears and can now hear; a non-reader, unhappy, uncooperative, quarrelsome, who needed special help and got it; a former street fighter and gang member who now tries to keep other teenagers off the streets; the 12-year-old son of a migrant worker who was hardly ready for the Fourth Grade but now is making it, slowly but steadily. Each of these and many thousands are tucked away in that almost four billion dollars that is going to be spent for education this year.

The programs have jargon names — programs for the disadvantaged, for the educationally deprived, names like that. What they mean is that all over this land there are children for whom school, ordinary school, doesn't mean much. The average child makes out all right. A busy teacher has time for the class as a whole. But even if she is dedicated and earnest, there are only so many hours in the day. There isn't enough time for the misfits. Some of them want to learn, some couldn't care less. A surprising number of them, like the drooping plant that responds to care, like the plant will stand up and bloom.

All you need is four billion dollars and fortunately we have it. It still isn't enough, but it helps a lot.

Teenagers in Office Jobs

—Part VIII—

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Although some offices forbid personal calls, most won't object to your making or receiving an occasional one, but keep it short. Your boss will object if he finds a client was unable to get through to him because you had the line tied up discussing last night's date.

So many boys and girls take summer of after-school jobs in stores that I'd like to offer a few suggestions that could lead to a raise or even a promotion. Know your products and where to find them. Your supervisor won't appreciate having to stop to tell where it is, and the customer doesn't want to wait while you go to hunt it down.

Don't stick to other teen-age workers like a gaggle to geese. It's almost inevitable, if you do, that you'll start to joke and gab, and that's not getting your job done.

As in all jobs, be neat and dress appropriately. Flat heels on girls may not look as glamorous as high ones, but at the end of the day you'll be walking a lot more gracefully than if your feet are killing you. Boys must be guided by what their employers want them to wear, but cleanliness and neatness are essential in every customer-contact job.

An attitude of boredom must definitely be avoided. The half-asleep, gum-chewing salesman or salesgirl, leaning wearily on a counter discourages the customer before he even starts to make a purchase. In a lull between sales, rearrange and straighten stock, check accounts, or whatever—but do something, anything, to keep from looking (and being) bored.

Accuracy is just as important in a store as it is in an office. If you are selling clothing in a retail store, your checks must be made out correctly and legibly, otherwise charges may be put on the wrong account or customers may be grossly over- or undercharged. Many stores have lost good customers through this sort of carelessness.

If your job is at a checkout counter, learn to give change quickly and accurately. Don't ever be afraid to ask questions of older employees. Checks, receipts, charge plates, and cash are all handled in different ways in individual stores, and if your boss neglects to indoctrinate you properly you must count on those who have been there longer to help.

MRS. ELIZABETH GROSSMAN BODINE, 70, of Velva, N. D., holds a bouquet during the annual luncheon of the American Mothers Committee in New York City May 9. At the luncheon, Mrs. Bodine, a farm woman who has 18 children and 75 grandchildren, was named "American Mother of the Year" for 1968. Her 10 sons are college graduates and her eight daughters either attended college or business schools. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Mother of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Bodine, 1968 Mother of the Year, raised her 18 children on a farm in North Dakota. Saying too much freedom is not good for children, she believes that it is better when they have chores to do.

Mrs. Bodine's guidance has paid off. The numerous offspring of this 70-year-old native of Poland have made their mark in America. They include a Navy officer, a retired Air Force colonel, three teachers, two nurses, a lawyer, a football coach and a baseball coach.

Her family, including 80 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren, is spread from Minnesota to California although six of the children make their homes in North Dakota.

When they are not at their own home in Velva, N.D., Mrs. Bodine and her husband, Frank, a retired farmer, visit the children's homes, stopping about a month at each place.

Mrs. Bodine, who came to the United States with her parents in 1913, was named the 1968 award winner Thursday in a candlelight ceremony at the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Asked her advice for young mothers today, Mrs. Bodine replied: "I think religion is the basis of a family. Religion came first in our house."

She said that mothers and children today have more freedom because of the conveniences of modern life. She recalled that electricity did not come to their farm until 1945.

Mrs. Bodine said she was particularly proud that 16 of her 18 children had attended college. She frowns on miniskirts and hippies.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Nearly four billion dollars is going to be spent this year by the Federal Government for educational programs of one sort or another. Even in an age when we no longer think in millions, four billion dollars is a lot of money. A list of the various programs would be dry as dust. Sometimes the spending of large sums is more revealing in terms of a few individuals, just the people who need help and get it.

For example, a first grader named Harry weighed 130 pounds. Too fat, you will say, and you will be right. Harry was so big and fat that his classmates laughed at him, left him out of their games, made him the butt of their jokes. Harry was miserable until, when summer came around, he fell into the hands of a couple of understanding folks (paid for by tax money) and they coaxed 30 pounds off Harry. When school opened he was still big, but his size was an asset instead of a liability. When the games needed weight, Harry was there to provide it.

Then there was Teddy, a good student but his people were poor. He wanted to go to college but knew he couldn't make it. There was a grant for Teddy (tax money again) and a loan.

He is finishing his freshman year at a good college now. He wants to be a teacher. Teachers are what we need today.

And David, 10 years old, black, timid, scared looking. No father and a mother who works out by the day. The neighborhood bored him but it was all he had for entertainment. David was not getting on well but he had a secret ambition. He wanted to be a doctor! It was two VISTA volunteers who took David in hand, introduced him to special after school classes in biology and chemistry, showed him that he could spend his summer at the Science Center. A doctor? David just might make it. We need doctors, too.

A deaf child who was able to profit by an operation on her ears and can now hear; a non-reader, unhappy, uncooperative, quarrelsome, who needed special help and got it; a former street fighter and gang member who now tries to keep other teenagers off the streets; the 12-year-old son of a migrant worker who was hardly ready for the Fourth Grade but now is making it, slowly but steadily. Each of these and many thousands are tucked away in that all-most four billion dollars that is going to be spent for education this year.

The programs have jargon names — programs for the disadvantaged, for the educationally deprived, names like that. What they mean is that all over this land there are children for whom school, ordinary school, doesn't mean much. The average child makes out all right. A busy teacher has time for the class as a whole. But even if there is dedicated and earnest, there are only so many hours in the day. There isn't enough time for the misfits. Some of them want to learn, some couldn't care less. A surprising number of them, like the drooping plant that responds to care, like the plant will stand up and bloom.

All you need is four billion dollars and fortunately we have it. It isn't enough, but it helps a lot.

Kaline Shakes Slump With Homer, Six RBIs

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tiger fans, turn off the alarm. Al Kaline is awake.

The Detroit star awoke from his slumber at the plate Friday night, and gave Washington pitchers a nightmare as he led the Tigers to a 12-1 victory and into first place in the American League.

Kaline went into the game with a season batting average of .228, one home run and two runs batted in. He came out with a .250 average, two homers and eight RBIs.

The 33-year-old outfielder hit a three-run homer, doubled in two runs and singled home another. The homer for Kaline, now in his 16th season, was his 306th and tied him with Hank Greenberg as Detroit's all-time leader.

In other AL games, the Chicago White Sox edged Oakland 2-1. Cleveland blasted Baltimore 12-0. The New York Yankees edged Boston 2-1 and California and Minnesota split a two-night doubleheader, the Angels winning the opener 3-0 and the Twins the nightcap 6-5.

"I was just trying for a sacrifice fly to bring in the man on third," Kaline said of his record-tying homer which came with two men on in the fourth inning.

Kaline also doubled home two runs and scored in the first and second. The Tigers scored four runs in each of the first two innings and made things easy for right-hander Denny McLain, who ran his record to 5-0 as Detroit replaced Baltimore in first place.

The White Sox won their game in the ninth when Luis Aparicio singled, stole second and scored on Duane Josephson's single. Ken Berry homered for Chicago and Jim Pajlaroni got one for Oakland.

Rich Reichardt broke a scoreless tie with a two-run homer for California in the sixth inning of its first-game victory over Minnesota and southpaw George Brunet backed it up with two hit pitches.

Nine of the 11 runs in the second game were unearned. Tony Oliva brought in one unearned run and one earned when he won it for Minnesota with a two-run homer in the eighth inning. Ed Kirkpatrick homered for the Angels.

Minnesota also got a run when John Roseboro stole home clinching a four-run fourth inning. Sonny Siebert fired a three-batter and Vic Davalillo and Joe Azcue supplied the offensive punch with three-run homers as Cleveland sent Baltimore to its third straight defeat.

City Softball
Openers Monday

City Softball League opens its 1968 season with a two-night doubleheader Monday at Block Park.

In the 7:15 p. m. opener, last year's champion Perry's Rest takes on Royal Grill. The nightcap, 15 minutes after the opener, presents two new entries (Club 99 of Highland) against Yallum's.

Probable pitchers are Billy Costello for Perry's against George Norton of Royals; and Rich Hoffman of Yallum's against Skip Eggleston, rated one of the best in New York state.

Last season's state champions, Red White's of Poughkeepsie, make their debut in a doubleheader Tuesday night against Club 99 and Perry's.

Yanks Edge Sox, 2-1 On White's Triple

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roy Jose Verbanic with two out in the ninth inning and scored the winning run on Andy Kosco's towering drive to deep center field Friday night, enabling rookie Stan Bahnsen and the New York Yankees to pin a 2-1 defeat on the Boston Red Sox.

Joe Verbanic with two out in the ninth after Tom Tresh pulled down Ken Harrelson's booming drive to the bullpen barrier in left-center, some 405 feet from home plate. Carl Yastrzemski was on base following a walk.

White slammed his triple on one bounce off the auxiliary scoreboard in right-center and held third as the tiring Waslewski struck out Mickey Mantle on three pitches. Kosco, who collected two of the Yankees' eight hits and scored their first run, then hit his sacrifice fly well over 400 feet to score White.

Kosco had led off the fourth with a line single and stole second base for one of New York's three thefts before tallying the first run of the game on Bobby Cox's line single to center.

The Red Sox matched that run in the sixth when Mike Andrews walked and came around on consecutive singles by Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith. Yastrzemski had two of Boston's five hits but through an exaggerated overshoot on the right side of the infield.

Swoboda's Home Run Wins Over Cubs, 5-1
CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Swoboda's three-run homer in the seventh inning powered the New York Mets to a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night and gave rookie southpaw Jerry Koosman his fifth victory.

The homer, Swoboda's first since April 30, left him one behind Willie McCovey of San Francisco who has nine. It also moved him in the major league runs batted in lead with 22.

Marlboro Central choked off an Onteora rally at three runs in the seventh inning to score a 4-3 victory Friday and throw the UCAL baseball race into a triple tie for first.

Onteora, 5-1 going into the contest, now shares the lead at 5-2 with Marlboro and New Paltz.

Relief pitcher Dale Sutton saved the game for Marlboro starter in the seventh after OCS had scored twice with no outs.

Onteora's starter—Ed Mercer—was knocked out of the box in a three-run second inning and Mickey Bush mopped up, yielding one run the rest of the way.

Archer Leads On 48-Foot Putt
By CARROLL P. TROSCIAIR
NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Lanky George Archer of Gilroy, Calif. sank a 48-foot putt on the 14th green Friday to take over the second round lead in the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open.

Archer's 32-33-65 over the wet Lakewood Country Club course, coupled with his first round 69, gave him a halfway mark of 134, eight-under par.

After Pagano walked, Roy McAttee delivered both with a long single.

Bush had trouble only in the fourth inning when the Dukes picked up what eventually proved to be the winning marker. Walks to Rich Passante, a hit batsman (Tom Monahan)

and an error on McAttee load-

last run at bat. The only hit he yielded up that point was a double to Frazier.

Bases on balls to Mike Patrick and John Stoothoff and Bush's single quickly got him into a bases-loaded, none-out jam.

Alan Cocks delivered a slashing single, scoring Bush and Patrick and chasing Pagano to the showers with none out and the score 4-2.

At this point, Sutton replaced Pagano and walked Dan Waters to reload the bases. Charlie Frazier jammed into a double play which scored Stoothoff with the third run of the inning. Sutton closed shop without further damage.

Bush, Cocks and Frazier accounted for the three OCS hits off Pagano. Dom Passante and Giametta each had two hits for the Dukes.

After Pagano walked, Roy McAttee delivered both with a long single.

Bush had trouble only in the fourth inning when the Dukes picked up what eventually proved to be the winning marker. Walks to Rich Passante, a hit batsman (Tom Monahan)

and an error on McAttee load-

last run at bat. The only hit he yielded up that point was a double to Frazier.

Bases on balls to Mike Patrick and John Stoothoff and Bush's single quickly got him into a bases-loaded, none-out jam.

Alan Cocks delivered a slashing single, scoring Bush and Patrick and chasing Pagano to the showers with none out and the score 4-2.

At this point, Sutton replaced Pagano and walked Dan Waters to reload the bases. Charlie Frazier jammed into a double play which scored Stoothoff with the third run of the inning. Sutton closed shop without further damage.

Bush, Cocks and Frazier accounted for the three OCS hits off Pagano. Dom Passante and Giametta each had two hits for the Dukes.

Saugerties High stayed in contention for DCSL baseball laurels, as sophomore Mike Turck outduelled John Soderman of Wappingers Falls, 2-0, in a schoolboy classic at Saugerties Friday.

In other league action, Poughkeepsie ran its unbeaten string to seven with a 9-1 win over Beacon and Roosevelt (2-5) topped Arlington (4-4) 4 to 0. Turck permitted only three hits, walked six and struck out 12. He was in a jam only once—when Wappingers loaded the bases with two outs in the sixth and he extricated himself by striking out Wappingers' cleanup hitter—Rush.

Soderman, who whiffed six, was equally effective, matching Turck in goose eggs after giving up the Sawyers' two runs in the first inning.

Soderman ran into trouble quickly when leadoff Mike O'Bryan drew a walk for Saugerties and Randy Fury followed with a single. Both runners moved up on Leone's infield out. Soderman fanned Bill Perks but Lindsay lined a solid single to right field scoring O'Bryan and Fury with the runs that settled the issue then and there.

Coach Pete Kramer's Sawyers loaded the bases with two outs in the third but Soderman got the next batter.

Wappingers mounted its only threat in the sixth inning. It started with a Guillani walk. Lencke delivered a pinch single and Vergili moved both runners up with a bunt.

Turck struck out Dubinski but walked Kosleck to load the bases with two outs. He bore down and struck out Rush swinging for the third out.

Second Turck Win
It was the second win in three decisions for Turck, who was impressive in a recent outing against Kingston High.

Saugerties is now 5-2 in DCSL competition and 6-4 overall.

All the hits in the game were singles and no player on either side collected more than one.

Kickers Play White Plains

The last three games between the Kingston Sport Club and the league leading White Plains squad have ended in ties. But the last thing the Kickers want is another tie in their crucial meeting Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Three points off the White Plains pace (28) and Bavarians sandwiched in between with 25, a victory for the Kickers is a must. A defeat would be the Armageddon. That's the picture in the League American Soccer Association.

Held to a 1-1 tie by the rugged Bavarian defense last week, the Kickers undoubtedly will try something new in order to get their usually high scoring forward line going again.

White Plains' defense is not

The Plainsmen will be led by their powerful halfback line of Schwartz, Mavle and Schmidt. Peter Marcault leads the visitors' offense and is likely to give Kingston's ace fullback, Winnie Soddemann, a tough afternoon.

The last three meetings between the clubs have ended in 2-2, 4-4 and 2-2 ties. Metanwhile, second place Bavarians host Yonkers, College Point is at Poughkeepsie and Dalmatinac entertains American Czechs.

Bowling Ferraros: An Expensive Hobby

By MIKE HELPER
Freeman Staff Writer

The hobby a man chooses for himself is very often along the same lines as his occupation. True or false?

Jack Ferraro of Kingston, who operates Ferraro's Bowlama and Mid-City Lanes can answer both true and false for his hobby.

Associated with sports through his pair of keggers palaces, Ferraro stayed in sports (the true answer), but went (false) to the extreme other end of the scale, switching to the outdoor sport of harness racing.

"I've fallen in love with it, and grown to a one-horse hobby to a very costly four-horse semi-hobby, semi-business," declared Ferraro, but it'll always be just a hobby, regardless of how successful I may become."

In harness racing just a short three years, Ferraro has made quite an investment in his hobby.

He wouldn't say how much, but an educated guess, puts the total roughly around $75,000, a mighty expensive hobby.

Ferraro, 36, has all four horses slated to compete at Monticello Raceway when it opens its doors Thursday. Ferraro hopes this year, his fourth and the Mighty M's 11th, will find him breaking even.

"Racing closer to home and cutting down on the expenses by doing a majority of the training myself, should help put us in the black for the first time," the well-built Ferraro said.

Of the four owned (all bay colored horses) and trained by he and his dad, three already are at MR. The veteran of the stable, six-year-old Leadsie Dale, is at Joe Aloy's farm in Rhinebeck awaiting a stall at Monticello.

A Likely Name

The star of the stable, according to Jack is a three-year-old trotting colt aptly named Strike Shooter. Unable to get away from the family's bread and butter, bowling, Jack and his dad chose the name because they figured the colt had the potential to be a real first class winner.

Out of Sharpshooter, one of the sport's finest trotting sires, and Rebel Girl (the dam or mother), Strike Shooter is expected to earn the bulk of the stable's income.

Richly staked in the $2 million Sire Stakes, Strike Shooter will face stiff competition from

Jack Ferraro With Strike Shooter

Fine Shot, Sire Stakes two-year-old champ and Nevele Pride, harness racing's Horse-of-the-Year last year as a two-year-old.

"He's a fine colt," Jack said, "with great potential. We had some trouble with him last year, and he didn't race much, but we feel he's straightened out and expect him to make us a great deal of money."

Last year the top horse in the barn was Trump's Knave, now a four-year-old. The Knave also ran into trouble, and failed to carry the ball as expected. His improvement this year will determine whether or not the stable breaks even.

Rounding out the stable are Shadydale Air Wing, a six-year-old and the mare, Leadsie Dale.

One Disappointment

Shadydale Air Wing has been a disappointment, certainly not living up to his potential, but Jack thinks he might have a remedy for that—driving the horse himself.

The hobbyist is in the process of obtaining two very important items, a driver to handle the two youngsters and a license to drive himself.

He currently holds a "fair" license, limiting him to non-pari mutual racing only. In the works is an application for a provisional license that will allow Jack to drive anywhere in the country.

"It takes some years and a great deal of experience to be an accomplished driver. I want to reach this goal very badly."

Exciting Sport

"It's an exciting sport. I love it very, very much. It's relaxing for me. Dad is becoming ever more engrossed in it, and spends whatever time he has picking up tips on handling, training and racing techniques. You wouldn't believe how he's taken to it."

"Give up your bowling business to take a full shot at harness racing, never," declared the black-haired bowler who spent two years on the PBA tour.

He ended the interview with this statement: "Give this (bowling) up and gamble on a new venture that hasn't shown any profit yet, not a chance. After all, it's only a hobby, member?"

Kickers Play White Plains

The last three games between Kingston Sport Club and the league leading White Plains squad have ended in ties. But the last thing the Kickers want is another tie in their crucial meeting Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

Three points off the White Plains pace (28) and Bavarians sandwiched in between with 25, a victory for the Kickers is a must. A defeat would be the Armageddon. That's the picture in the League Division of the German American Soccer Association.

Held to a 1-1 tie by the rugged Bavarian defense last week, the Kickers undoubtedly will try something new in order to get their usually high scoring forward line going again.

White Plains' defense is not rated as tough as the Bavarians, but they are far more dangerous at the "goal mouth."

The Plainsmen will be led by their powerful halfback line of Schwartz, Mawle and Schmidt; Peter Marcault leads the visitors' offense and is likely to give Kingston's ace fullback, Winnie Soddemann, a tough afternoon.

The last three meetings between the clubs have ended in 2-2, 4-4 and 2-2 ties. Metanwhile, second place Bavarians host Yonkers, College Point is at Poughkeepsie and Dalmatians entertains American Czechs.

Bowling Ferraros: An Expensive Hobby

By MIKE HELFNER
Freeman Sports Staff

The hobby a man chooses for himself is very often along the same lines as his occupation. True or False?

Jack Ferraro of Kingston, who operates Ferraro's Bowlerama and Mid-City Lanes can answer both true and false for his hobby.

Associated with sports through his pair of kegler palaces, Ferraro stayed in sports (the true answer), but went (false) to the extreme other end of the scale, switching to the outdoor sport of harness racing.

"I've fallen — love with it, and grown from a one-horse hobby to a very costly four-horse semi-hobby, semi-business," declared Ferraro, but it'll always be just a hobby, regardless of how successful I may become."

In harness racing just a short three years, Ferraro has made quite an investment in his hobby.

He wouldn't say how much, but an educated guess, puts the total roughly around $75,000, a mighty expensive hobby.

Ferraro, 36, has all four horses slated to compete at Monticello Raceway when it opens its doors Thursday. Ferraro hopes this year, his fourth and the Mighty M's 11th, will find him breaking a home and cutting closer to home and "Racing down on the expenses by doing a majority of the training myself, should help put us in the black for the first time," the well-built Ferraro said.

Of the four owned (all bay colored horses) and trained by he and his dad, three already are at MR. The veteran of the stable, six-year-old Leadsie Dale, is at Joe Aloy's farm in Rhinebeck awaiting a stall at Monticello.

A Likely Name

The star of the stable, according to Jack is a three-year-old trotting colt aptly named Strike Shooter. Unable to get away from the family's bread and butter, bowling, Jack and his dad chose the name because they figured the colt had the potential to be a real first class winner.

Out of Sharpshooter, one of the sport's finest trotting sires, and Rebel Girl (the dam or mother), Strike Shooter is expected to earn the bulk of the stable's income.

Richly staked in the $2 million Sire Stakes, Strike Shooter will face stiff competition from

Jack Ferraro With Strike Shooter

Pine Shot, Sire Stakes two-year-old champ and Nevele Pride, harness racing's Horse-of-the-Year last year as a two-year-old.

"He's a fine colt," Jack said, "with great potential. We had some trouble with him last year, and he didn't race much, but we feel he's straightened out and expect him to make us a great deal of money."

Last year the top horse in the barn was Trump's Knave, now a four-year-old. The Knave also ran into trouble, and failed to carry the ball as expected. His improvement this year will determine whether or not the stable breaks even.

Rounding out the stable are Shadydale Air Wing, a six-year-old and the mare, Leadsie Dale.

One Disappointment

Shadydale Air Wing has been a disappointment, certainly not living up to his potential, but Jack thinks he might have a remedy for that—driving a horse himself.

The hobbyist is in the process of obtaining two very important items, a driver to handle the two youngsters and a license to drive himself.

He currently holds a "fair" license, limiting him to non-pari mutuel racing only. In the works is an application for a provisional license that will allow Jack to drive anywhere in the country.

"It takes some years and a great deal of experience to be an accomplished driver. I want to reach this goal very badly."

Exciting Sport

"It's an exciting sport. I love it very, very much. It's relaxing for me. Dad is becoming ever more engrossed in it, and spending whatever time he has picking up tips on handling, training and racing techniques. You wouldn't believe how he's taken to it."

"Give up our bowling business to take a full shot at harness racing, never," declared the black-haired bowler who spent two years on the PBA tour.

He ended the interview with this statement: "Give this (bowling) up and gamble on a new venture that hasn't shown any profit yet, not a chance. After all, it's only a hobby, re-

Pencils were disappearing from an elementary school. Officials finally trapped the culprit, a 4th-grade boy. They called the boy's father, who was horrified.

Mr. Brown (the worried parent)—I can't imagine why he stole the pencils. I bring a home plenty from the office.

Teachers and students joined forces last week at the Onteora Central School in Boiceville and presented a talent show for the benefit of the Onteora Chapter of the American Field Service. The Onteora Chapter of the American Field Service was organized and formally accepted by the main office of that organization in New York in December of 1932. The AFS is a non-profit organization established since World War I. Its purpose is that of arranging for foreign students of high schools to visit and study in the United States and for American students to go abroad on a similar basis.

The student AFS Club at Onteora works under the supervision of an adult committee. Serving with Miss Narel for the 1968-69 year will be Debra Allen, vice president; Kathy Lee, treasurer; and Helen Turk, secretary. Outgoing officers are Steve Hanks, president; Sheila Umhey, vice president; Helen Turk, secretary; and Kathy Crost, treasurer.

To Host Exchange

The club meets twice a month and plans are now being made to host 45 exchange students during a weekend of activities in July. The exchange students visiting the Onteora district will have completed a year's residency in Illinois. They will conclude their bus tour with a visit to Washington, D. C., and then leave for their own countries.

According to the new AFS president, next year's agenda will include fund raising activities, dances, talent shows and a possible trip to the United Nations.

Adult Advisors

Members of the adult committee are Mrs. Ned Buoy-master, president; Mrs. George Holzman, vice president; Mrs. Paul Williams, secretary; Robert J. Goodrich, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Belet, student-family liaison; William Wakefield, Americans-Aboard coordinator; Frank MacMartin, school liaison; Mrs. Egon Schreiner, publicity; and Mrs. Joseph Cieri, projects.

Drop-Out Makes Comeback In Return to High School

Being a drop-out is not so later with ambitions of being a great. Albert Rohe, son of Mrs. teacher.

Mary J. Rohe of New Paltz found this out and returned to graduate from New Paltz High School this year.

Rohe dropped out of school in January, 1967, because he "found school regulations too restrictive" saying that "the schedule and work interfered with his own activities."

After roaming around the country and living in California for awhile, Al returned to New Paltz. He was "tired of being a slob" and had decided to enter school in September of 1967. He graduated six months with the class of 1968.

The Teen Scene

by
LEI

There's something about climbing astride a motorcycle, either as boss of the brute or back on the buddyseat, that tends to wipe out more serious considerations. Even if it's a tame under 10 h.p. job and you're far from resembling a bit player in Wild Angels, a cycle brings out the maverick in all of us.

Unfortunately, a motorcycle is a poor spot to feel free and unfettered. It's hard to remember while showing off up Main Street or opening her up out Route 28 that in the past six years motorcycle deaths have tripled, and that one runs five times more chance of being killed on a cycle than in a car. Most of you have been fortunate enough to not have seen the victim at the scene of a cycle wipeout. It's enough to wring your guts for a lifetime. Even hearing a survivor tell what happened can send chills. And there's an even worse way of finding out what carelessness can cost on two wheels. First hand. That's a lesson that costs too much. It's better to use your brain beforehand.

Basic Rules

Some rules shouldn't need stating, but often, it's the obvious that's the most easily forgotten or ignored. Don't drive a cycle that isn't in good condition. Remember, the traffic rules were meant for you, too. Don't drive a cycle unless you can handle its operation, and don't take in on the public roads until you know your equipment well enough to handle an emergency. Don't go wheeling in poor driving conditions. Don't try to handle a cycle if you're stoned, and don't take someone on your buddy seat who's had a few. Finally, no show-off stuff or horseplay. Well, okay, if you must, but remember, it isn't always the other cat who totals out.

Other rules aren't as obvious. The law, right or wrong, requires helmets. They're just as important for back-seat drivers, too. Unfortunately, the law doesn't regulate helmet quality, and some of them, including reputable brands, offer no more protection than a sunbonnet. Don't use a shaded faceplate at night, it cuts visibility dangerously.

The Anfels don't wear all that leather entirely to petrify the straights. Cover as much of you as you can—and that goes double for your buddy-seat birds. You may think cycling in short-shorts is cute, but at best you'll shiver. At worst—well, scars will never be "in." Motorcycles are no place, either, for long scarves and flying hair. And remember, dolls, as inviting as it is to hug the guy in front—don't. Grab the buddy-seat bars instead. If there aren't any, don't ride. You may not only save your life, you may save his.

Play Safe

For the cycle-owner, as safety equipment becomes available for your machine, get it. And look out for the drivers of four-wheelers who are out to prove something—or, in the case of large trucks, can't see you. Ride in the outer half of the lane, to discourage passers who might cut you off. If you drive a scooter or small cycle, make sure it can take the pace safely before you try highway driving.

Some of these rules may be laws, soon. This probably won't drive cycle fans with joy. But there are some people who need laws to keep them alive. No, not you, of course. The other fellow . . .

Okay, wheel off, have fun. But be a little bit chicken. After all, motorcycle accidents very rarely kill chickens. . . .

PROUD PLANNERS — Kingston winners in the Central Hudson kitchen planning contest are (L-R) Georgia Ranson, Kingston High School; Antoinette Turk, Antoinette Turk, Myron J. Michael Junior High School and Jeanne Fleming, J. Watson Bailey Junior High School. The contest which involves planning and assembling of model kitchens was open to senior high and ninth grade home ec students. The girls will go on to competition with winners from 59 area schools for the grand award.

STATE HONORS — James Ambrose, center, of Kingston High School takes over state presidential duties at a recent meeting of Future Business Leaders of America. The election was particularly outstanding as this is Kingston's first year of membership in organization. With Ambrose at the Albany meet are James Peattie, left, of State University at Albany, outgoing president, and Elton Murphy, associate supervisor for the State Education Department.

KHS Students Take Honors As Future Business Greats

Future Business Leaders of America may very well come from Kingston if the local chapter's recent honors are any indication.

At the annual convention of New York State Future Business Leaders of America, Phi Beta Lambda, in Albany, KHS members walked off with numerous awards and the state presidency.

It was the first year of operation for the local chapter but it took first place in the state for largest membership. KHS's James Ambrose was elected state president for the 1968-69 term.

Contest winner included Jean Wolfersteig, second in spelling and vocabulary; Philip Karowski, second in public speaking and John Moroney, second in Mr. Future Business Leader.

More than 20 chapters attended the state convention which was headquartered at the Schine-TenEyck Hotel. Local delegates were accompanied by Robert Weber and Mrs. Elizabeth Milano, faculty sponsors of the KHS chapter.

The organization which is sponsored by the National Business Education Association of NEA, is made up of business students from high school and college who are specializing in office occupations and are enrolled in vocational office skills program.

In addition to the contests and workshop sessions, there were speakers who explored The Field of Teaching Today and What the Employer Looks for in the Potential Employee. Job interviews were conducted by General Electric for interested high school and college students.

All was not work for the delegates however. Entertainment features included the Luv Minus Zero rock group and a Conference, folk group. A gala banquet rounded the two-day program.

It's Spring Concert Time— Schools Prepare Music Fetes

It is spring concert time around the high school circuit and some promising events are planned.

At New Paltz Central, high school choir and chorus, Middle School chorus, select vocal groups and soloists will combine efforts Thursday 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Highlight of the program will be an original musical skit, Sing-It-To-Me Time by Senior members of the high school choir.

Valley Central School musicians will take part in the 1968 New York State School Music Association competitions to held at area schools. The first is today at Minesink Valley Central School and the second at Monticello High School next Saturday.

Under the direction of Lee Herrington and Mrs. Barbara Lottridge, the RVCS groups hope to repeat the impressive wins voted home by last year's competitors.

The 1967 senior band came away with an unprecedented 6A plus rating. Today 75 soloists and 13 ensembles, both band and choral will compete. Senior and junior band, senior and junior choir and the elementary band will compete at Monticello.

Campus Sing-a-Long Features Collarmen

A Sing-a-Long with the famed year Father Ralph Bennett of Collarmen of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary is slated at Ulster County Community College Tuesday.

The outdoor program will be held on the plaza in front of the Macdonald DeWitt Library at the college's Stone Ridge campus beginning at 1:40 p. m. The singing, swinging event is being sponsored by the UCCC Newman Club.

Kathy Rapp, club president, said the program has been arranged because of the tremendous appeal of the group to young audiences. Although the garb is religious, the beat is folk, folk rock and pop.

The Collarmen have been gaining increasing popularity with the youth of the Mid Hudson Valley through the medium of music. So great is their appeal audiences just can't resist singing along.

Their talent in the modern idiom is not limited to this area, as they have performed before varied audiences across the nation and have cut two nationally distributed records.

Members of the singing group are Father James Bek and Father Bill Grassman, ordained last year; Chuck Beierwaltes, a seminarian; Father Carlos Valles, also ordained last

Teen Humor

Pencils were disappearing from an elementary school. Officials finally trapped the culprit, a 4th-grade boy. They called the boy's father, who was horrified.

Mr. Brown (the worried parent) I can't imagine why. He was "tired of being South Ohioville road, New Paltz" and had decided to re-join him home plenty from the of-ense school in September of 1967. He graduated six months with the class of 1965.

Drop-Out Makes Comeback In Return to High School

Being a drop-out is not so later with ambitions of being a great. Albert Rohe, son of Mrs. Mary J. Rohe of New Paltz, found this out and returned to graduate from New Paltz High School this year.

Rohe dropped out of school in January, 1967, because he "found school regulations too restrictive" and working "the schedule" saying that "the school and graduate, John L. Wyman, principal said the other country and living in California for while. Al returned to New of Mrs. Joseph Lo Casio of South Ohioville road, New Paltz, and had decided to re-join him home plenty from the of-ense school in September of 1967. He graduated six months with the class of 1965.

Teachers and students joined forces last week at the Onteora Central School in Boiceville and presented a talent show for the benefit of the Onteora Chapter of the American Field Service. Student performers included Barbara Narel of West Hurley, newly elected AFS Club president; Eileen Guadagnola, Charlene Carlson, Dorothy Knickmeyer, Karen Stern, Jean Latof, Shayan Malkine, Marjorie Devereaux, Lorelei Hiedenstrom, Lorraine Holzman and Jan Hoyt.

Rosslyn Tiller, AFS exchange student from Australia, also performed as well as a guest group from Kingston High School, The Collegiates. The KHS students included Jeneata Reynolds, Ann Scher, Pam Benitez, Brenda Klein and Joanne Brudniak.

Laugh-In

OCS students Henry Jackson and Richard Heppner were the show's Rowan and Martin. George Sullivan and James Sullivan were lighting technicians. Faculty member in the show were Dr. Harold Snyder, superintendent of schools; William Wakefield, William Witter, William Burgin.

The Onteora Chapter of the American Field Service was organized and formally accepted by the main office of that organization in New York in December of 1932. The AFS is a non-profit organization established since World War I. Its purpose is that of arranging for foreign students of high schools to visit and study in the United States and for American students to go abroad on a similar basis.

The student AFS Club at Onteora works under the supervision of an adult committee. Serving with Miss Narel for the 1968-69 year will be Debra Allen, vice president; Kathy Lee, treasurer; and Helen Turk, secretary. Outgoing officers are Steve Hanks, president; Sheila Umhey, vice president; Helen Turk, secretary; and Kathy Crost, treasurer.

To Host Exchange

The club meets twice a month and plans are now being made to host 45 exchange students during a weekend of activities in July. The exchange students visiting the Onteora district will have completed a year's residency in Illinois. They will conclude their bus tour with a visit to Washington, D. C., and then leave for their own countries.

According to the new AFS president, next year's agenda will include fund raising activities, dances, talent shows and a possible trip to the United Nations.

Adult Advisors

Members of the adult committee are Mrs. Ned Buoy-master, president; Mrs. George Holzman, vice president; Mrs. Paul Williams, secretary; Robert J. Goodrich, treasurer; Mrs. Henry Berleth, student family liaison; William Wakefield, Americans-Aboard coordinator; Frank MacMartin, school liaison; Mrs. Egon Schreiner, stop; Mrs. Howard Hanks, publicity; and Mrs. Joseph Cieri, projects.

The Teen Scene

by LEI

There's something about climbing astride a motorcycle, either as boss of the brute or back on the buddyseat, that tends to wipe out more serious considerations. Even if it's a tame under 10 h.p. job and you're far from resembling a bit player in Wild Angels, a cycle brings out the maverick in all of us.

Unfortunately, a motorcycle is a poor spot to feel free and unfettered. It's hard to remember while showing off up Main Street or opening her up out Route 28 that in the past six years motorcycle deaths have tripled, and that one runs five times more chance of being killed on a cycle than in a car. Most of you have been fortunate enough to not have seen the victim at the scene of a cycle wipeout. It's enough to wring your guts for a lifetime. Even hearing a survivor tell what happened can send chills. And there's an even worse way of finding out what carelessness can cost on two wheels. First hand. That's a lesson that costs too much. It's better to use your brain beforehand.

Basic Rules

Some rules shouldn't need stating, but often, it's the obvious that's the most easily forgotten or ignored. Don't drive a cycle that isn't in good condition. Remember, the traffic rules were meant for you, too. Don't drive a cycle unless you can handle its operation, and don't take in on the public roads until you know your equipment well enough to handle an emergency. Don't go wheeling in poor driving conditions. Don't try to handle a cycle if you're stoned, and don't take someone on your buddy seat who's had a few. Finally, no show-off stuff or horseplay. Well, okay, if you must, but remember, it isn't always the other cat who totals out.

Other rules aren't as obvious. The law, right or wrong, requires helmets. They're just as important for back-seat drivers, too. Unfortunately, the law doesn't regulate helmet quality, and some of them, including reputable brands, offer no more protection than a sunbonnet. Don't use a shaded faceplate at night, it cuts visibility dangerously.

The Anfelds don't wear all that leather entirely to petrify the straights. Cover as much of you as you can—and that goes double for you buddy-seat birds. You may think cycling in short-shorts is cute, but at best you'll shiver. At worst—well, scars will never be "in." Motorcycles are no place, either, for long scarves and flying hair. And remember, dolls, as inviting as it is to hug the guy in front—don't. Grab the buddy-seat bars instead. If there aren't any, don't ride. You may not only save your life, you may save his.

Play Safe

For the cycle-owner, as safety equipment becomes available for your machine, get it. And look out for the drivers of four-wheelers who are out to prove something—or, in the case of large trucks, can't see you. Ride in the outer half of the lane, to discourage passers who might cut you off. If you drive a scooter or small cycle, make sure it can take the pace safely before you try highway driving.

Some of these rules may be laws, soon. This probably won't drive cycle fans with joy. But there are some people who need laws to keep them alive. No, not you, of course. The other fellow . . .

Okay, wheel off, have fun. But be a little bit chicken. After all, motorcycle accidents very rarely kill chickens. . .

PROUD PLANNERS — Kingston winners in the Central Hudson kitchen planning contest are (L-R) Georgia Ranson, Kingston High School; Antoinette Turk, Myran J. Michael Junior High School and Jeanne Fleming, J. Watson Bailey Junior High School. The contest which involves planning and assembling of model kitchens was open to senior high and ninth grade home ec students. The girls will go on to competition with winners from 59 area schools for the grand award.

STATE HONORS — James Ambrose, center, of Kingston High School takes over state presidential duties at a recent meeting of Future Business Leaders of America. The election was particularly outstanding as this is Kingston's first year of membership in organization. With Ambrose at the Albany meet are James Peattie, left, of State University at Albany, outgoing president, and Elton Murphy, associate supervisor for the State Education Department.

KHS Students Take Honors As Future Business Greats

Future Business Leaders of America may very well come from Kingston if the local chapter's recent honors are any indication.

At the annual convention of New York State Future Business Leaders of America, Phi Beta Lambda, in Albany, KHS members walked off with numerous awards and the state presidency.

It was the first year of operation for the local chapter but it took first place in the state for largest membership. KHS's James Ambrose was elected state president for the 1968-69 term.

Contest winner included Jean Wolfersteig, second in spelling and vocabulary; Philip Kar-kowski, second in public speaking and John Moroney, second in Mr. Future Business Leader. More than 20 chapters attended the state convention which was headquartered at the Schine-TenEyck Hotel. Local delegates were accompanied by Robert Weber and Mrs. Elizabeth Milano, faculty sponsors of the KHS chapter.

The organization which is sponsored by the National Business Education Association of NEA, is made up of business students from high school and college who are specializing in office occupational office skills program.

In addition to the contests and workshop sessions, there were speakers who explored The Field of Teaching Today and What the Employer Looks for in the Potential Employee. Job interviews were conducted by General Electric for inter-ested high school and college students.

All was not work for the delegates however. Entertainment features included the Luv Minus Zero rock group and the Conference, folk group. A gala banquet rounded the two-day program.

It's Spring Concert Time— Schools Prepare Music Fetes

It is spring concert time around the high school circuit and some promising events are planned.

At New Paltz Central, high school choir and chorus, Middle School chorus, select vocal groups and soloists will combine efforts Thursday 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Highlight of the program will be an original musical skit, Sing-It-To-Me Time by Senior members of the high school choir.

Approximately 300 Roundout Valley Central School musicians will take part in the 1968 New York State School Music Association competitions to held at area schools. The first is today at Minesink Valley Central School and the second at Monticello High School next Saturday.

Campus Sing-a-Long Features Collarmen

A Sing-a-Long with the famed year Father Ralph Bennett of Collarmen of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary is slated at Ulster County Community College Tuesday.

The outdoor program will be held on the plaza in front of the Macdonald DeWitt Library at the college's Stone Ridge campus beginning at 1:40 p. m. The singing, swinging event is being sponsored by the UCCC Newman Club.

Kathy Rapp, club president, said the program has been arranged because of the tremendous appeal of the group to young audiences. Although the garb is religious, the beat is folk, folk rock and pop.

The Collarmen have been gaining increasing popularity with the youth of the Mid Hudson Valley through the medium of music. So great is their appeal audiences just can't resist singing along.

Their talent in the modern idiom is not limited to this area, as they have performed before varied audiences across the nation and have cut two nationally distributed records.

Members of the singing group are Father James Bek and Father Bill Grassman, ordained last year; Chuck Beier-waltes, a seminarian; Father Carlos Valles, also ordained last

Can-Can Dancers

CAN-CAN DANCERS are just part of the fun in the current Coach House production of "Paint Your Wagon" which opened last night at the George Washington School. The lively Can-Can dancers were sketched by Jeanne Murphey, who served as art director for the presentation. The theme of the dances was carried through to the program cover by Barbara Policano. "Paint Your Wagon," under the direction of talented Bill Skilling, will have a repeat performance tonight at 8:30 and again on May 16, 17 and 18. Harry Sommer is production manager with Ralph Harper and Raymond Caddy as consultants. Musical accompanist is Gloria-Jean Clark who plays all the well known Fredrick Loewe selections.

Coach House Offers New Musical

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Take an early evening in the high California hills in the year 1853, populate it with "gold rush" miners, Can-Can dancers, a sweet, sympathetic daughter, a singing father, a saloon, drinking, melodious selections, and you have a fair picture of the latest Coach House production "Paint Your Wagon." The Lerner and Loewe Broadway musical hit opened last night in the auditorium of the George Washington School to a near capacity audience.

Under the direction of William Skilling, Coach House gives a valid interpretation and provides an evening of pleasant, enjoyable entertainment.

Without a doubt, the heaviest burden of acting and singing falls upon the shoulders of William Sacher, cast as the successful gold mining father of a sweet, but undisciplined daughter. Sacher discharges his tremendous responsibility in the production with creditable ease. Everyone is familiar with Sacher's radio voice on Station WGHQ and it is a pleasant surprise to hear his performance as a singer.

Sacher has many theatrical credits. An active performer with Coach House, he appeared in "The Potting Shed," "South Pacific" and "Enter Laughing." He has also acted in plays for the Sullivan County Dramatic Workshop, the Towne Players and the Jewish Community Center, both in Buffalo. In Puerto Rico he appeared in numerous productions presented by the Ramey Theatre Guild. He also directed "Antigone" for TV.

Terry LaLima, cast as the daughter Jennifer, is amply charming and sweet as the daughter of a successful mining father should be. LaLima has appeared in other Coach House productions including "Pajama Game" and a workshop one act play, "Hello Out There." It may be hard to believe, but tiny Terry is the mother of two children.

James Stay, a newcomer to Coach House, is cast as a Mexican of noble birth who of course falls in love with Jennifer. Although Stay has a small voice, it has a pleasant quality. A native of Ulster County, he lives in Saugerties and works as a computer programmer at Ferroxcube Corporation. He is a member of the Fair Street Reformed Church Choir and has sung with the Catskill Glee Club and the Ulster County Choral Society. He is recording technician for the WGHQ Choir of the Air.

Musically speaking, the finest performance is given by Bruce Baisden, Betty Friday and Elizabeth Ose who portrays Mormons. Their "Trio" number is exceptionally well done and a high spot in the evening.

Peter Rakov comes through in the comic relief department and Betty Lindsay gives usual good performance.

Rounding out the cast of "Paint Your Wagon" are Irwin Miller, Frank Policano, George Lissandro, Thomas Riley, Sam Tesoriero, Fred Pritchitt, Lyn DePaola, Natalie Straub, Raymond Caddy, William Chavois, Harry Sommer, Barbara Seissler, and Terry Seravalle.

Cap-Can dancers are Barbara Kleckner, Dianne Mullgrave, Barbara Seissler, Terry Seravalle, Lyn DePaola and Natalie Straub.

The excellent sets are direct from New York and the backstage staff consists of Harry Sommer, production manager; Ralph Harper and Raymond Caddy, Consultants. Judy Kamen is assistant to the director.

Other members of the staff are Helen Hodges, stage settings and properties; Francis Gardner, lighting; Steve Mezer, sound; Kay Finn, costumes; Jeanne Murphey, art; Natalie Straub, choreography; Emilia Weyhe, assistant choreographer; Barbara Seissler, Barbara Reil, make-up; Margaret Melert, ushers; Hilda Krum, tickets; Kay Fletcher, publicity; William Hawk, program; Elizabeth Askue, program; Frank Policano, play reading; Pat Bottino, associate membership; and Barbara Policano, program cover.

"Paint Your Wagon" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 p. m. and again on May 16, 17 and 18, all in the auditorium of the George Washington School.

Can-Can Dancers

CAN-CAN DANCERS are just part of the fun in the current Coach House production of "Paint Your Wagon" which opened last night at the George Washington School. The lively Can-Can dancers were sketched by Jeanne Murphy, who served as art director for the presentation. The theme of the dances was carried through to the program cover by Barbara Policano. "Paint Your Wagon," under the direction of talented Bill Skilling, will have a repeat performance tonight at 8:30 and again on May 16, 17 and 18. Harry Sommer is production manager with Ralph Harper and Raymond Caddy as consultants. Musical accompaniment is Gloria-Jean Clark who plays all the well known Fredrick Loewe selections.

Coach House Offers New Musical

By DOROTHY A. NAREL
Take an early evening in the high California hills in the year 1853, populate it with "gold rush" miners, Can-Can dancers, play, "Hello Out There." It may be a sweet, sympathetic daughter, be hard to believe, but tiny

James Stay, a newcomer to Coach House, is cast as a Mexican of noble birth who of course course, falls in love with Jennifer. Although Stay has a small voice, it has a pleasant quality. A native of Ulster County, he lives in Saugerties and works as a computer programmer at Ferroxx Corporation. He is a member of the Fair Street Reformed Church Choir and has sung with the Catskill Glee Club and the Ulster County Choral Society. He is recording technician for the WGHC Choir of the Air.

Musically speaking, the finest performance is given by Bruce

Baisden, Betty Friday and Elizabeth Ose who portrays

Mormons. Their "Trio" number is exceptionally well done and a high spot in the evening.

Peter Rakov comes through and Betty Lindsay gives usual good performance.

Rounding out the cast of "Paint Your Wagon" are Irwin

Miller, Frank Policano, George Lissandrello, Thomas Riley,

Sam Tesoriero, Fred Pritchett, Lyn DePaola, Natalie

Straub, Raymond Caddy, William Chavois, Harry Sommer,

Barbara Seissler and Terry Seravallo. Can-Can dancers are Barbara Kletckner, Dianne Mullgrav, Barbara Seissler, Terry Seravallo, Lyn De Paola and Natalie Straub.

The excellent sets are direct from New York and the backstage staff consists of Harry Sommer, production manager,

Ralph Harper and Raymond Caddy, Consultants. Judy

Kamen is assistant to the director.

Other members of the staff are Helen Hodges, stage settings and properties; Francis Gardner, lighting; Steve Mezer, sound; Kay Finn, costumes; Joanne Murphy, art; Emilia

Weyhe, assistant choreography; Barbara Seissler, Barbara

Reil, make-up; Margaret Mellett, ushers; Hilda Krum, tickets; Kay Fletcher, publicity; William Hawk, program; Elizabeth Askue, program; Frank Policano, play reading; Pat

Bottino, associate member-ship; and Barbara Policano, program cover.

"Paint Your Wagon" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 p. m. and again on May 16, 17 and 18, all in the auditorium of the Georgetown Washington School.

Dear Abby

This Marriage Is Sick

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1968, King Features Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Joe and I have been married for 18 years and have had a fairly happy marriage. Joe isn't the jealous type, but I think he carries it to the other extreme.

We've been very friendly with a rather weird couple who live across the street from us. Pete is 59, short, fat, and very unattractive. Aggie is his third wife. She's cute and sexy, and about 25 years younger than Pete. She obviously married him for his money.

Lately Pete is getting much too friendly with me. He puts his hands on me, and once made a direct proposition, which I turned down gracefully. It seems the four of us are spending more and more time together, during which time Pete tries to play "footies" with me. Last night he even took his shoe off and practically had his foot in my lap. I loudly told him off, and my husband just laughed. Aggie doesn't care who Pete plays footies with as long as it isn't her. (I think she must have something else going for her.)

Anyway, Pete suggested the four of us take a month's vacation together. I started making up excuses why we couldn't, but my husband was all for it. Is our marriage sick? I don't care to spend all that time with this couple. Why should my husband want to? And why shouldn't he be annoyed that another man makes passes at his wife?

JOE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your marriage is sick, and so is Joe in the area of husbandhood. A man who respects his wife and his marriage would not tolerate any monkey business, much less encourage it. Tell Joe that if he enjoys Pete's company, he should see him without you. And you could be right about Aggie's having something else going for her. Just make sure it's not Joe.

Mistakes Are Part of Bridge

By Oswald and James Jacoby

We don't care how well or how poorly you play bridge. You always will make many mistakes. But the better the player, the fewer the mistakes.

South's four spade contract would be arrived at in almost any game. Even if North failed to give an immediate raise, South would bid along strongly. The defense would start with West playing ace king and jack of clubs. South would ruff the third club and most declarers would draw trumps and lose the heart finesse. Later, these declarers would lose a diamond and say something about finesses always losing for them.

Today's South was a better player. At trick four he led a trump to dummy's jack. He ruffed dummy's last club, played one more trump to pull the one outstanding and led his eight diamonds. West played the jack. Dummy's ace won the trick. South led a diamond back to his king and West dropped his queen of diamonds under the king. West could see an end play developing and wanted to keep from being thrown in. If South held the 10 of diamonds West would have lost a diamond trick but would still get his king of hearts. Since East held the 10 of diamonds, when South played the third diamond East was able to gain the lead. East

I met a very attractive, eligible bachelor at a party. I am also "free" (divorced) and we seemed instantly attracted to each other. He asked me for my telephone number and said he'd call me. He also gave me his business card and wrote his home telephone number on the back. He said that he goes out of town on short business trips frequently, which is probably why I haven't heard from him as yet.

I have had my hand on the telephone several times to call him, but so far I have been able to resist the temptation.

Today I received an invitation to a very nice party for which I'll need an escort. Do I dare call him? I KNOW he liked me. Abby, I just seemed to "click." If I call him to invite him to this party, do you think it will look like I am chasing him?

TEMPTED

DEAR TEMPTED: Yes, don't call him. Most attractive, eligible males are also spoiled by women who pursue them. Don't join the pack. If the attraction was mutual, you'll be hearing from him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband, but the trouble seems to be the girl he went with before he married me. She keeps sending him "Miss You" cards, birthday telegrams and Christmas cards, etc. And she signs everything, "Love."

I have begged my husband to please call up this old girl friend and tell her once and for all she should leave him alone, but he won't do it. He says he has never done anything to encourage her—and he doesn't lie—but I feel if he really loved me he would do something to put a stop to all this. I am 56 and he is 68 and we have been married 17 months.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You would be wise to quit bugging your "wonderful" husband. He's right. He has done nothing to encourage her, and by ignoring her he is discouraging her in the best possible way. His old girl friend probably never enters his mind—until YOU bring her up.

It's amazing: The gal who can't carry her own compact when you take her somewhere is perfectly capable of wrestling a six-burner stove across the kitchen at cleaning time.

Chances are, the fellow who gets "E" for effort would be delighted to get a little "M" for money.

Sure cure for a hippie with hiccups: threaten him with a bar of soap.

No, Gwendolyn, the quarter-deck isn't where the slot machines are on an excursion boat.

South's play was good from a technical standpoint, but expert South had not played the hand as well as he might have. He had drawn a blueprint of his plan of campaign and expert West had stayed out of the trap. Real technique would have been for South to lead his king of diamonds as soon as he ruffed that third club.

West might still have guessed enough to drop a diamond honor, but we doubt if he would have been that alert.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

Comes spring, the first thing to get cleaned is dad's wallet.

It's amazing: The gal who can't carry her own compact when you take her somewhere is perfectly capable of wrestling a six-burner stove across the kitchen at cleaning time.

The children will appreciate it if you tell them about the birds and the bees. Some city youngsters have never seen a bee.

The fellow who follows a good example better not let his wife catch him at it.

Skills said to be some 4,000 years old have been found in Norway, but for truly old ones we invite you to explore the rental items at our nonfavorite ski shoppe.

Chances are the fellow who gets "E" for effort would be delighted to get a little "M" — for money.

Sure cure for a hippie with hiccups: threaten him with a bar of soap.

Conceited people generally have faulty vision. They can't see themselves as they are, or they'd go to an "I" doctor.

You can be sure a boy is growing up when he loses his dislike for playing with dolls.

One question for the person who expects others to lead a good life on a meager salary: How can one do anything else?

No, Gwendolyn, the quarter-deck isn't where the slot machines are on an excursion boat.

The guy who always cries about the home team obviously enjoys a bowl game.

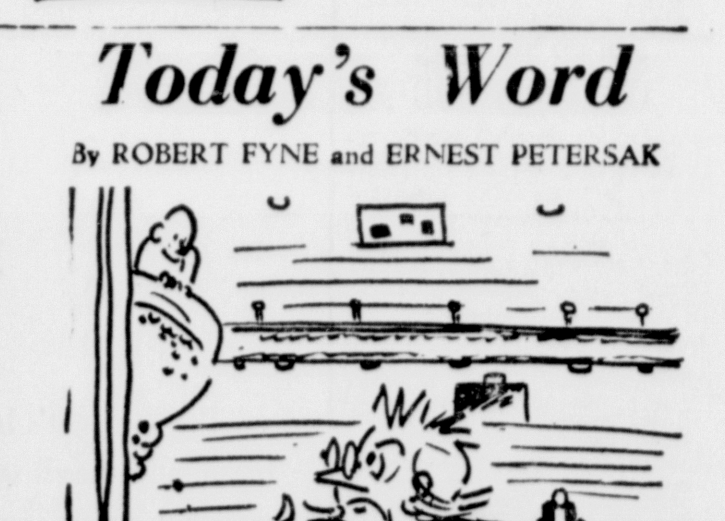

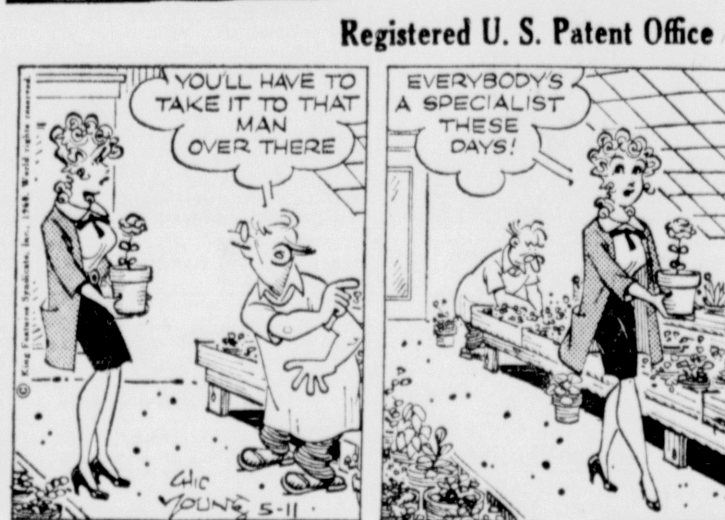

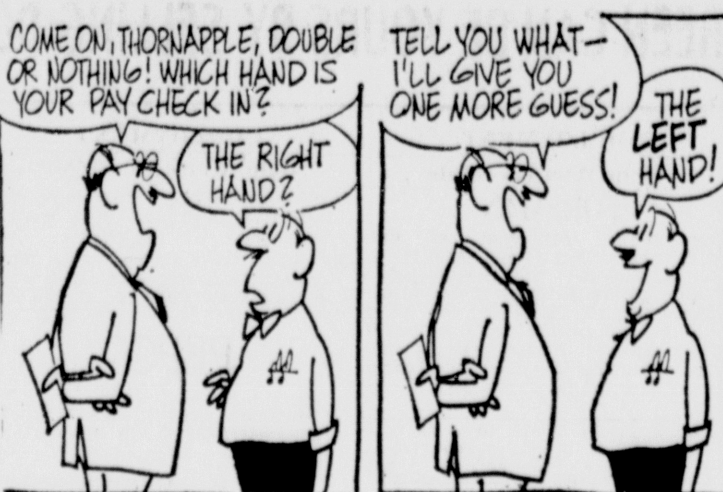

Gone are the days when women got raw, red hands from washing clothes. They now get'em from wrestling with deep-frozen food packages.

The fellow who says he could tell the Old Man how to run the shop usually has enough discretion not to try it.

OFFICE CAT

By Junius Wade Mark Reg.

Any alibi a man uses to escape a fight for right labels him a coward even though a great president did say, "A man can be too proud to fight."

They say there's a square doughnut on the market for folks who like to eat while watching Lawrence Welk's TV show.

Mr. Brown (the passenger)—opposite me is a lunatic. He's scaring my wife and children. He claims he's George Washington.

Mr. Tate (the conductor helpfully)—I'll take care of that. Then he shouted: Mr. Tate — Next stop, Mount Vernon!

Lots of us remember when a wayward child was straightened up by being bent over.

shoulders, threw up his hands and exclaimed, Mr. Long (the native)—These Americans! They've been everywhere.

Navy Makes File Public On Lt. Cmdr. Arnheiter

By MALCOLM G. BARR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Navy files show the Pacific Fleet commander recommended reassignment of Lt. Cmdr. Marcus A. Arnheiter to shore duty because as a destroyer skipper he displayed "a gross lack of judgment."

Adm. Roy L. Johnson's recommendation, overruling a rear admiral who said Arnheiter should be given command of another vessel, resulted in Arnheiter's assignment to a desk job near San Francisco.

Arnheiter's file was made public by the Navy Friday, the day after unofficial congressional hearings on the case were concluded by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y.

Johnson wrote: "The actions of Lt. Cmdr. Arnheiter... reveal a gross lack of judgment. It is recognized that, taken individually, many of the facts do not represent significant errors in judgment but, taken in the aggregate over a relatively short period of time, they reveal a complete inability to command and lead people."

Arnheiter, who at the Resnick hearings requested a court of inquiry or court martial, was relieved of command of the Pacific Fleet destroyer escort Vance in 1966. He contended his dismissal was caused by dissident junior officers who complained about him.

The 42-year-old Naval Academy graduate said he was not allowed to call his own witnesses at a hearing in Subic Bay, The Philippines, from which the hearing officer, Capt. Ward Witter, filed 41 "findings of fact."

Among the findings, "38 of which Arnheiter contended were never substantiated."

Arnheiter introduced alcoholic beverages aboard the Vance.

He reduced the number of ship's personnel while the vessel was in port to permit maximum attendance at a social function ashore.

He fired weapons while on Vietnam duty so close to native junks that the Vietnamese were frightened and their lives and the lives of Arnheiter's men were possibly endangered.

He used the crew's welfare fund to buy a speedboat, mounted a machine gun on it and used it for scouting the enemy.

He conducted shore bombardments without having been assigned such a mission.

Witter concluded: "Lt. Cmdr. Arnheiter is not the type of officer that deserves the privilege of command."

Acting on the record of the Witter hearing, Rear Adm. T. S. King recommended a reprimand for Arnheiter, and that he be relieved of command.

The file shows Rear Adm. W. H. Baumberger, acting on King's recommendation, upheld Arnheiter's removal from the Vance but recommended he be reassigned to command another vessel.

Bombard Viet Cong Troops With Bombs and Artillery

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops, planes today slammed bombs and artillery shells into entrenched pockets of Viet Cong but they refused to budge from strongholds on two sides of Saigon.

Near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), U.S. troops fought sharp engagements with North Vietnamese units that Vietnamese security sources said were part of a major push against South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

The Viet Cong attacking Saigon for the past seven days fought from solid positions on the south end of the long "Y" bridge and near Phu Tho racetrack on the western edge of the capital. Although there were scattered clashes in other areas allied forces believed the guerrillas planned a fight to the death in those two positions.

South Vietnamese security sources said there was evidence North Vietnam was pouring men and supplies across the DMZ and had sent two generals to direct the operation. They ran into U.S. troops guarding the buffer zone Thursday and the Communists lost at least 427 men in a series of battles.

In Da Nang, the U.S. Marine commander of the northern area, Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman said today that North Vietnamese prisoners had told interrogators the Communists had decided to launch a second wave of attacks against the northern provinces.

In Saigon, the 9th Division today reported killing 51 Communists in a nine-hour battle Friday, and estimated that the Viet Cong have lost 200 since the start of the fighting near the bridge.

South of the Phu Tho racetrack, about six miles southwest of downtown Saigon, South Vietnamese rangers killed eight guerrillas Friday, spokesmen said. Heavy fighting erupted again in the area today, they said.

U.S. spokesmen said that the total number of Communists killed since the offensive against the city began has reached 4,000.

Mother's Day Poem

CHICAGO (AP)—Fifth-grade pupils at Mark Twain school wrote poems for their mothers in honor of Mother's Day. In his ode, Scott Stolina wrote:

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky in a speech today put the Viet Cong strength around the city at 12 to 13 battalions, not all at their full strength of 600 men.

"We are stopping them just outside Saigon," he said. "Surrounding them, destroying them and eliminating them."

The Communists were unable to penetrate the main part of the city in force but a few mortars burst in the center of town. One hit a small refreshment stand killing four civilians and wounding seven others.

The outskirts were hit the hardest and the vast army of homeless grew bigger. An estimated 80,000 refugees have been added to the 100,000 driven from their homes in the New Year offensive, officials said.

The first thing to remember on Mother's Day is that there is a right time for everything. Including calling your mother. In this case the right time is before 10 A.M. or between 1 P.M. and 7 P.M. if you call on Sunday. During these hours there's less chance you'll be held up by crowded circuits. (Mother's Day is our second-busiest day.)

The second thing to remember? That things often get done faster when you have a hand in them. And you'll get through to your mother a lot faster if you dial the call yourself.

Lowest long-distance telephone rates are in effect all day Sunday. In fact, for out-of-state calls, the same low rate starts at 7 P.M. Friday and runs straight through until 7 A.M. Monday. So you see, you've really got lots of time to remember your mother. Don't forget.

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops, planes today slammed bombs and artillery shells into entrenched pockets of Viet Cong but they refused to budge from strongholds on two sides of Saigon.

Near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), U.S. troops fought sharp engagements with North Vietnamese units that Vietnamese security sources said were part of a major push against South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

The Viet Cong attacking Saigon for the past seven days fought from solid positions on the south end of the long "Y" bridge and near Phu Tho racetrack on the western edge of the capital. Although there were scattered clashes in other areas allied forces believed the guerrillas planned a fight to the death in those two positions.

South Vietnamese security sources said there was evidence North Vietnam was pouring men and supplies across the DMZ and had sent two generals to direct the operation. They ran into U.S. troops guarding the buffer zone Thursday and the Communists lost at least 427 men in a series of battles.

In Da Nang, the U.S. Marine commander of the northern area, Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman said today that North Vietnamese prisoners had told interrogators the Communists had decided to launch a second wave of attacks against the northern provinces.

In Saigon, the 9th Division today reported killing 51 Communists in a nine-hour battle Friday, and estimated that the Viet Cong have lost 200 since the start of the fighting near the bridge.

South of the Phu Tho racetrack, about six miles southwest of downtown Saigon, South Vietnamese rangers killed eight guerrillas Friday, spokesmen said. Heavy fighting erupted again in the area today, they said.

U.S. spokesmen said that the total number of Communists killed since the offensive against the city began has reached 4,000.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky in a speech today put the Viet Cong strength around the city at 12 to 13 battalions, not all at their full strength of 600 men.

"We are stopping them just outside Saigon," he said. "Surrounding them, destroying them and eliminating them."

The Communists were unable to penetrate the main part of the city in force but a few mortars burst in the center of town. One hit a small refreshment stand killing four civilians and wounding seven others.

The outskirts were hit the hardest and the vast army of homeless grew bigger. An estimated 80,000 refugees have been added to the 100,000 driven from their homes in the New Year offensive, officials said.

Mother's Day Poem
CHICAGO (AP) — Fifth-grade pupils at Mark Twain school wrote poems for their mothers in honor of Mother's Day. In his ode, Scott Stolnack wrote:
"We all know it's our dad who brings home the bacon.
"But it's our mom who stays up when your bones are achin'."

The first thing to remember on Mother's Day is that there is a right time for everything. Including calling your mother. In this case the right time is before 10 A. M. or between 1 P. M. and 7 P. M. if you call on Sunday. During these hours there's less chance you'll be held up by crowded circuits. (Mother's Day is our second-busiest day.)

The second thing to remember? That things often get done faster when you have a hand in them. And you'll get through to your mother a lot faster if you dial the call yourself.

Lowest long-distance telephone rates are in effect all day Sunday. In fact, for out-of-state calls, the same low rate starts at 7 P. M. Friday and runs straight through until 7 A. M. Monday. So you see, you've really got lots of time to remember your mother. Don't forget.

Ups and Downs of Saving Perrine's

When TEMPO used a photo of Perrine's Covered Bridge on its own cover to illustrate its April's end issue, back came a glowing "thank you" from John Grady, president of the Perrine's Bridge Committee, Inc., dedicated to the preservation and reconstruction of New York's OLDEST covered bridge—which just happens to be right here in Ulster County at Rifton.

Then Grady asked TEMPO to go to bat for his "frustrated" committee and to remind the public that this area is in dire peril of losing the historic and picturesque old span in spite of the all-out efforts being made to save the venerable landmark of horse and buggy days.

Grady said he spoke not as the president of the Perrine's Committee, but rather as an individual taxpayer and state resident who has become "increasingly appalled by the bureaucratic tactics" of New York's governmental agencies. "The time honored words 'efficiency and expediency' are evidently not part of the operational procedures followed by governmental agencies directly involved in handling public funds and public contracts," lamented Grady.

30-Year Fight

Why so? Because for a period of more than 30 years there have been many attempts made to restore and preserve Perrine's by various civic and historic minded citizens and groups. But, although the weathered span is a veteran of many political campaigns in that it has been used for poster display by candidates and as a vote getter, all the bridge has ever gleaned from all this is "promises - promises" from some who even now hold public office.

Few would argue that it is worthy of restoration and preservation or that it is an integral part of the historic heritage of Ulster County. Not only is it a scenic delight, but it is architecturally unique since the arch-type construction of its timeless beams has served as the format of many modern spans.

Furthermore, because of its very location, it offers a study in comparisons and contrasts. Adjoining an ultra modern Thruway overpass and a nearby Route 32 steel bridge crossing the Wallkill, Perrine's graphically illustrates to the beholder the progress of bridge designing over the last century or more. A nostalgic memento of as past, perhaps, but one which should be saved.

We asked Grady to trace the history of the latest effort to keep Perrine's among us and he did so, as follows:

"In October 1966 we made one of the first applications to the newly organized New York State Historic Trust to have Perrine's designated as an historic site. The Trust as the sole authority or reviewing such applications and granting assistance financially when the project is deemed worthy of consideration. It has the authority to expend $200 million dollars over a 10 year period, $100-million for the designation of historic sites and $100-million for the acquisition and development of parks.

"The bridge was inspected early in 1967 by members of the Historic Trust. After much time consuming deliberation it was decided that, although it was not to be designated as a state historic site, it was worthy of assistance as a local historic structure and the state historic trust notified our committee that it would grant matching funds for the restoration of the span.

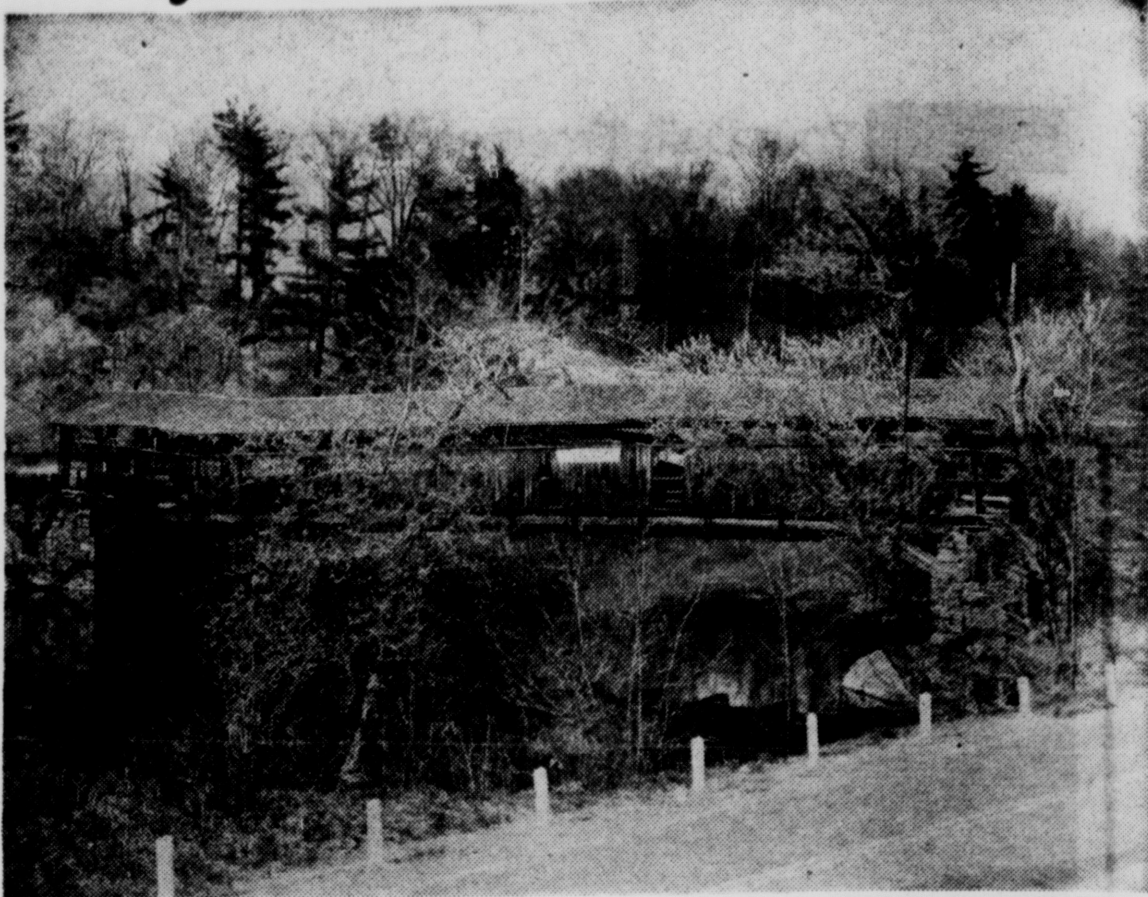

"An application for matching funds was made to the Trust in May of 1967 in the amount of $25-thousand dollars. An equal amount was requested from the county board of supervisors and was granted in September of 1967.

"The Historic Trust transferred the application to the Palisades Park Commission for turn notified the Perrine's Bridge Committee that it would be necessary to have local authorities designated as the responsible agency to allocate any funds granted. In order to comply with this request resolutions were passed by the Rosendale and the Ulster County Board of Supervisors informing the Trust they would act as the agency responsible for the administration of the funds.

"Later, much later, we were again informed that our application required additional detailed maps in order to pinpoint and to clarify the ownership of Perrine's Bridge. Our county attorney interrupted his busy schedule and took the time to obtain this information and forwarded it to the commission.

"It was then suggested by the Historic Trust that perhaps a rest area could be established on the Thruway adjacent to the bridge so tourists traveling in this area could stop and view the scenic structure.

"A sub-committee was formed and went to Albany to see the chairman of the Thruway Authority. It was agreed that a rest area would serve as an ex-

The original project estimated in the amount of $50-thousand dollars had now risen to almost one half million dollars. The plan for a rest area was abandoned and we were back to the original plans and back with the Historic Trust and the Palisades Park Commission.

"We were informed in February that the Park Commission had returned our application to the Historic Trust for a final deliberation. The Trust meets monthly but, now, after two more months, we are still awaiting word on its final answer. If the answer is favorable, we will still have to wait more months to have the State Legislature pass on the funds."

So much for the delays and disappointments. But there were others as well. Not too

Cranking Contest At Smith's Clove

The Greenwood Lake Regional Antique Automobile Club is sponsoring the Annual Antique Automobile Show on the Village Green at Smith's Clove Museum, Sunday, May 19.

Approximately 50 cars and drivers are expected to compete in a number of contests for prizes offered by the Museum and the Greenwood Lake Club, at the Monroe green.

Registration is scheduled for 10:30 a. m. at the main gate with the main events commencing at 1:30 p. m. Events scheduled include a Maypole Contest, a Cranking Competition for both Model T and Model A cars and the third contest for Blind Driving. Awards are expected to be made around 3:30 with most of the cars remaining on display until 5 p. m.

Perrine's from oblivion passed away in the persons of Judge Allan Dargie and William Van Benschoten.

The public has tried to help by contributing funds and these are still on deposit in a Kingston bank, to be held until some action is taken on the fate of Perrine's. They will, of course, be returned, if all efforts fail.

The red tape that drapes Perrine's is not visible to the eye nor can its reflection be seen in the water below. But it's there just the same in the form of time consuming ribbon in governmental agencies, lengthy processing delays, lack of progress, and excuses and more excuses.

What many feel to be a worthy project has spent two years marking time and treading water in a sea of red tape. One thing more. Perrine's is listed as a tourist attraction in the State's "Vacationland Handbook," printed by New York's Department of Commerce. But, while recognizing its claim to fame, that department and others have done little to preserve and restore it for the future.

Whomping Up a Whopper of a Season

BARBARA HARRIS and Alan Alda were in the hit Broadway musical, "The Apple Tree," all about the interplay between man and woman and studded with raucous parody.

If you've seen The Homecoming once and would like to see it again; if you missed Lauren Bacall in The Cactus Flower in New York but would enjoy it just as well sans that talented lady; if you've read about the uproar caused by America Hurrah and want to see first hand for yourself what the hullabaloo's all about—you may have the opportunity this summer.

The Woodstock Playhouse is getting ready to initiate its 21st consecutive season this June and, although the schedule for the 1968 Summer season is not completely set, these three plays are under consideration.

Other possibilities include Black Comedy, which starred a bumbling Lynn Redgrave on Broadway; George Bernard Shaw's Heartbreak House; Peter Ustinov's The Unknown Soldier and His Wife; The Killing of Sister George, one of the finest British plays of recent years; and The Odd Couple, now in release as a movie with Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau.

Other Mables

Also being weighed for summer performance are: George Kelly's The Show-Off; Neil Simon's Star Spangled Girl; Edward Albee's Tiny Alice; that old favorite, You Can't Take It With You; and such recent successes as Joe Egg, There's a Girl in My Soup, The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie, and Rosenkrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead, all about Hamlet's historically overlooked buddies.

There's sure to be a musical or two at the Woodstock Playhouse this summer and among the tuneful happenings being considered are: Hello Dolly, The Apple Tree, the durable and nostalgic The Streets of New York, Guys and Dolls and Cabaret, which recreates the sleazy nightclub atmosphere of Berlin's Kit Kat Klub.

believe that the art colony Playhouse is whomping up a whopper of a season and the best way to guarantee your share of the entertainment is to take advantage of the theatre's unique season ticket plan.

A Season Ticket-Card, says the Playhouse, will entitle patrons to 10-admissions to the theatre on any week-day night including Fridays and Sundays, and its value will even be honored on Saturdays and holidays if the difference in price is paid. Furthermore, the ticket can be used at any time by any number of people; once a week or all in one night if the holder so desires. And it's equally good for dramas, comedies and musicals alike.

M. Edgar Rosenblum, Playhouse producer, thinks of his season ticket plan as the biggest theatre bargain ever offered. He emphasizes that the price for 10-admissions is only slightly more than half of what one would pay if tickets were purchased individually. And, for safety's sake, each card is numbered and registered with the Playhouse in case of loss or theft.

He also notes that for the past three seasons, the theatre has sold out its quota of these tickets. No more will be printed that the original amount offered at the bargain price... and that means only 300. They are now on sale to the general public, following a priority mailing. Those who take advantage of the offer now will be assured of seats for an exciting season starting in June at the Woodstock Playhouse since orders are being filled in order of receipt.

Out of the Past... The Green Kill Inn On Rondout's River

Ask almost anyone about The Green Kill Inn, one of Ulster County's most charming summer resorts, and he'll probably say, "Never heard of it!" TEMPO, too, must admit that up until a few short days ago, we knew only that such a picturesque place of leisure had indeed existed in fact somewhere in the vicinity of Eddyville in an earlier age.

Now, thanks to Mrs. Joseph Robb, of Kingston, and her collection of old photographs, Green Kill Inn, once the pride of Green Kill Park, comes to life again — if only momentarily — for a new generation which uses its non-working hours for more frantic pursuits.

Green Kill Inn was a summer hotel operated in connection with Green Kill Park, a burgeoning colony of 17 cottages and bungalows, all situated within throwing distance of Kingston, which even then had its historic appeal.

Atop a Bluff

The Inn itself was located on a high bluff overlooking the Rondout Creek (which the Inn's proprietors insisted on calling a "river") and the view is said to have been magnificent in all directions. From windows framed in striped awnings, a guest up from the streets of New York could look upon the distant peaks of the Catskills on the west, the Shawangunks on the east, and get a bird's eye view of the then beautiful Rondout Valley and The Park.

On the main floor of the Inn, guests flowed into the spacious dining and living rooms or out onto the broad piazzas and the sun parlor which surrounded three sides of the building and proved popular for rest and recreation.

It was the proud boast of the innkeepers that guest rooms in the main building and annex were airy and equipped with hot and cold water and private baths. If this was not wonder enough, the two were also lighted throughout by electricity, as were all of the cottages and the main drives in the Park.

Under the Pines

Strike you as a delightful place for a summer vacation? It was. The community life of the Park centered at the Inn, which offered comfort and entertainment for guests. Some 150 acres of rolling land was available for the tramping and groves of shade trees abounded in abundance. Under the chestnuts, the pines and the oaks, family groups walked the pastorally perfect meadows and hiked along the rugged hills.

There was natural beauty aplenty for Mother Nature endowed the Park with an enticing stream of pure spring water (The Green Kill or Green Brook) from which the Park derived its name.

Along the five miles of well swept and well kept walks and drives in the Park, an older generation strolled or embarked upon auto and carriage trips.

Boating, bathing, fishing and tennis were the major outdoor attractions and, for those who enjoyed a little night life even then, the Park Casino provided a place for indoor games, music and dancing.

A few of the building could attract on the basis that telephone connections were in use . . . but the guest who yearned for a letter from home had to await the daily postal service by Rural Free Delivery.

Attesting to the fact that man needed a means of sustaining his faith at his home away from home was the Inn's practice of holding a religious song service each Sunday evening in the Casino.

The Simple Life

This was wholesome, simple living amidst natural surroundings, but the Inn was proud, too, that it encouraged "congenial and refined associations." This line from its advertising brochure particularly tickled our fancy: "The spirit of the place is democratic, and while rather indifferent to fashion and conventionality, it discriminates against unsuitable introductions and detrimental innovations." In other words, only guests of "refined tastes" were wanted and what they could expect in return was "good service with plain but substantial table at moderate charge" (meaning fresh country produce from local farms and gardens).

So it was that year after year hundreds sought room with board or cottages by the week at the Inn in the Park on Rondout. They came by West Shore Railroad and Hudson River Day Line boats to Kingston, or via yacht or stage to Eddyville, only a mile from the Park. The three mile trip from Kingston was made by carriage or taxi-cab. And when they checked out, they gladly left their names as references for those who would come after them.

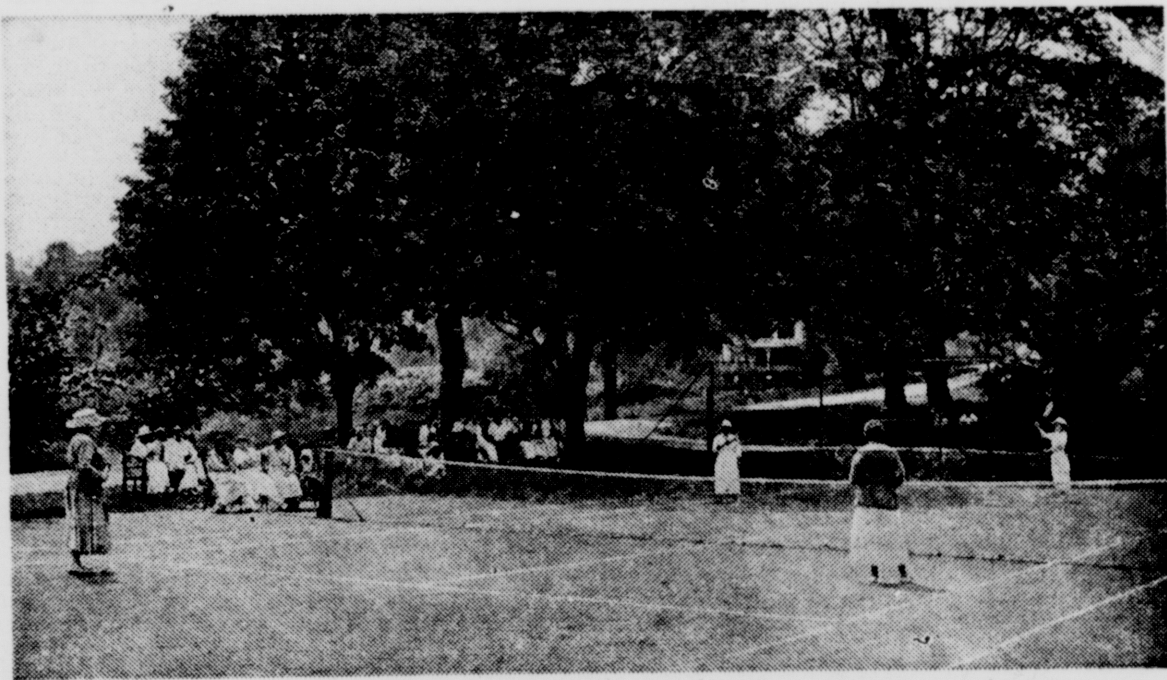

That was Green Kill Inn, old fashioned but beautiful and pleasing to the memory in retrospect — but certainly a part of the vanishing Americana. — TOBIE GEERTSEMA.

Outstanding Male Choruses for Massed Concert Here

ALBERT G. HUNTER Jr.

Mendelssohn Club has named directors and soloists who will participate in the 1968 Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Massed Concert scheduled May 18 at Kingston High School by the Mendelssohn group, and featuring as special guests, the U.S. Military Academy (West Point) Glee Club.

"Not only are these male choruses outstanding in the field of male music," the club noted; "they possess highly competent and talented directors each of whom works effectively for the high accomplishments of his chorus." The choruses participating will total approximately 200 voices.

Directors taking part in the Massed Concert include Curtice White Jr., directing the IBM Male Chorus of Poughkeepsie; Donald Fellows of Saugerties leading the Catskill Glee Club of Catskill; Willard H. McNary directing the Euterpe Club of Poughkeepsie; and Anton Acqueno directing the Amphion Club of Newburgh.

The West Point Fourth Class Glee Club, the special featured guest group of the program will be under the leadership of CWO John P. Cockrane, music director and Major Leroy D. Hammond, officer-in-charge. The choral performance of the Military Academy group and its special program participation are highlights toward what is expected to be an outstanding Hudson Valley Massed Chorus presentation.

Guest Directors

Guest directors also include Brian Steeves and Lee Herrington, both of Ulster County. Steeves, assistant director of the Mendelssohn Club, and a member of the music department of Kingston City School Consolidated, will direct the opening number of the massed group. Herrington, musical director at Rondout Valley Central School, will lead the brass accompaniment provided by the RVCS Band's brass group.

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, as host organization and sponsor of the Massed Chorus Concert, will perform in the massed group under the leadership of the club's director Albert G. Hunter, Jr.

Hunter, known throughout the Hudson Valley as a pianist, orchestra leader, accompanist, and choral conductor is a native of Poughkeepsie. His musical education and training included Juilliard School of Music and many special teachers. At Juilliard he majored in piano and also studied counterpart and composition with Aurelio Giorni, a pupil of Chopin's protégé, Sgambote, who passed on Chopin's fingering. He studied five years with Hester Nichols of the University of Vermont, accompanied John Nichols, vocal instructor at Vassar College, and won a 2-year piano scholarship at the University of Vermont. Hunter has given piano recitals which include performances at Town Hall, New York City, and Jordan Hall, Boston. He has served as church organist for the First Baptist Church, Poughkeepsie; teaches at Millbrook School for Boys, Millbrook, and The Barlow School, Amenia. Hunter has served as director of the Poughkeepsie Community Mixed Chorus for 18 years, and direct of Kingston's Mendelssohn Club for several seasons.

Tickets for the 200 voice Massed Chorus Concert may be purchased from all members of the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, or by directly contacting Mendelssohn Club president, Edward L. Sprute, 3 Clifton Terrace; club secretary, Charles A. Selzo, Summit Avenue; or concert chairman Charles Talheur of Kingston.

Out of the Past... The Green Kill Inn On Rondout's River

Ask almost anyone about The Green Kill Inn, one of Ulster County's most charming summer resorts, and he'll probably say, "Never heard of it!" TEMPO, too, must admit that up until a few short days ago, we knew only that such a picturesque place of leisure had indeed existed in fact somewhere in the vicinity of Eddyville in an earlier age.

Now, thanks to Mrs. Joseph Robb, of Kingston, and her collection of old photographs, Green Kill Inn, once the pride of Green Kill Park, comes to life again — if only momentarily — for a new generation which uses its non-working hours for more frantic pursuits.

Green Kill Inn was a summer hotel operated in connection with Green Kill Park, a burgeoning colony of 17 cottages and bungalows, all situated within throwing distance of Kingston, which even then had its historic appeal.

Atop a Bluff

The Inn itself was located on a high bluff overlooking the Rondout Creek (which the Inn's proprietors insisted on calling a "river") and the view is said to have been magnificent in all directions. From windows framed in striped awnings, a guest up from the streets of New York could look upon the distant peaks of the Catskills on the west, the Shawangunks on the east, and get a bird's eye view of the then beautiful Rondout Valley and The Park.

On the main floor of the Inn, guests flowed into the spacious dining and living rooms or out onto the broad piazzas and the sun parlor which surrounded three sides of the building and proved popular for rest and recreation.

It was the proud boast of the innkeepers that guest rooms in the main building and annex were airy and equipped with hot and cold water and private baths. If this was not wonder enough, the two were also lighted throughout by electricity, as were all of the cottages and the main drives in the Park.

Under the Pines

Strike you as a delightful place for a summer vacation? It was. The community life of the Park centered at the Inn, which offered comfort and entertainment for guests. Some 150 acres of rolling land was available for the tramping and groves of shade trees abounded in abundance. Under the chestnuts, the pines and the oaks, family groups walked the pastorally perfect meadows and hiked along the rugged hills.

There was natural beauty aplenty for Mother Nature endowed the Park with an enticing stream of pure spring water (The Green Kill or Green Brook) from which the Park derived its name.

Along the five miles of well swept and well kept walks and drives in the Park, an older generation strolled or embarked upon auto and carriage trips.

Boating, bathing, fishing and tennis were the major outdoor attractions and, for those who enjoyed a little night life even then, the Park Casino provided a place for indoor games, music and dancing.

A few of the building could attract on the basis that telephone connections were in use . . . but the guest who yearned for a letter from home had to await the daily postal service by Rural Free Delivery.

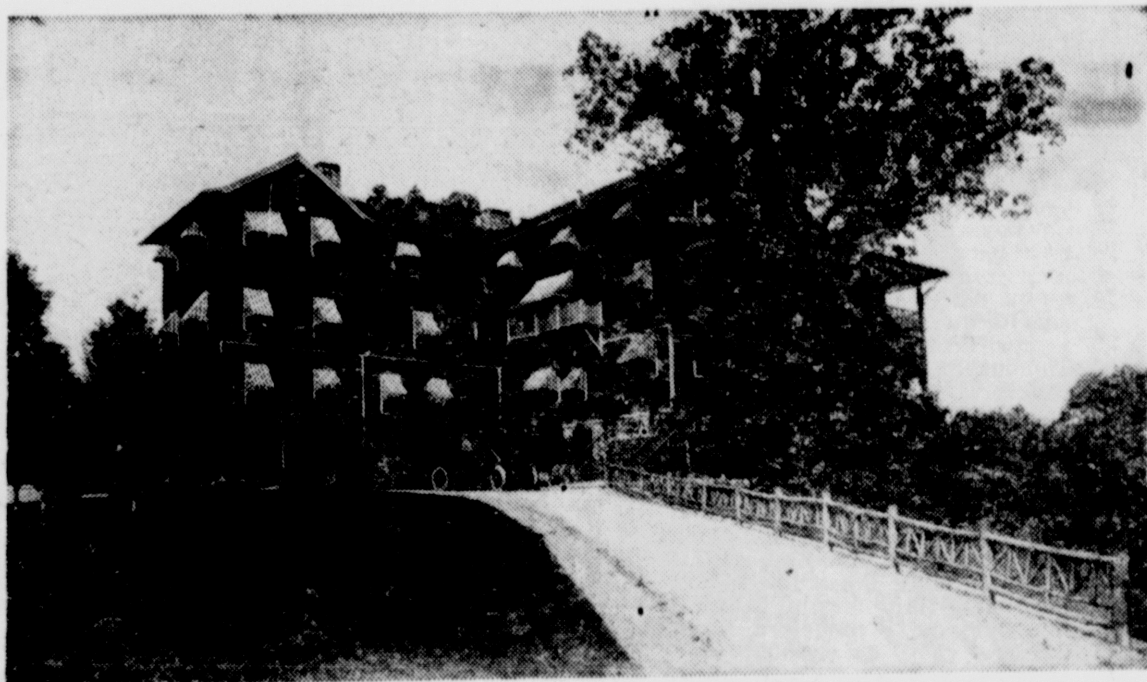

Attesting to the fact that man needed a means of sustaining his faith at his home away from home was the Inn's practice of holding a religious song service each Sunday evening in the Casino.

The Simple Life

This was wholesome, simple living amidst natural surroundings, but the Inn was proud, too, that it encouraged "congenial and refined associations." This line from its advertising brochure particularly tickled our fancy: "The spirit of the place is democratic, and while rather indifferent to fashion and conventionality, it discriminates against unsuitable introductions and detrimental innovations." In other words, only guests of "refined tastes" were wanted and what they could expect in return was "good service with plain but substantial table at moderate charge" (meaning fresh country produce from local farms and gardens).

So it was that year after year hundreds sought room with board or cottages by the week at the Inn in the Park on Rondout. They came by West Shore Railroad and Hudson River Day Line boats to Kingston, or via yacht or stage to Eddyville, only a mile from the Park. The three mile trip from Kingston was made by carriage or taxi-cab. And when they checked out, they gladly left their names as references for those who would come after them.

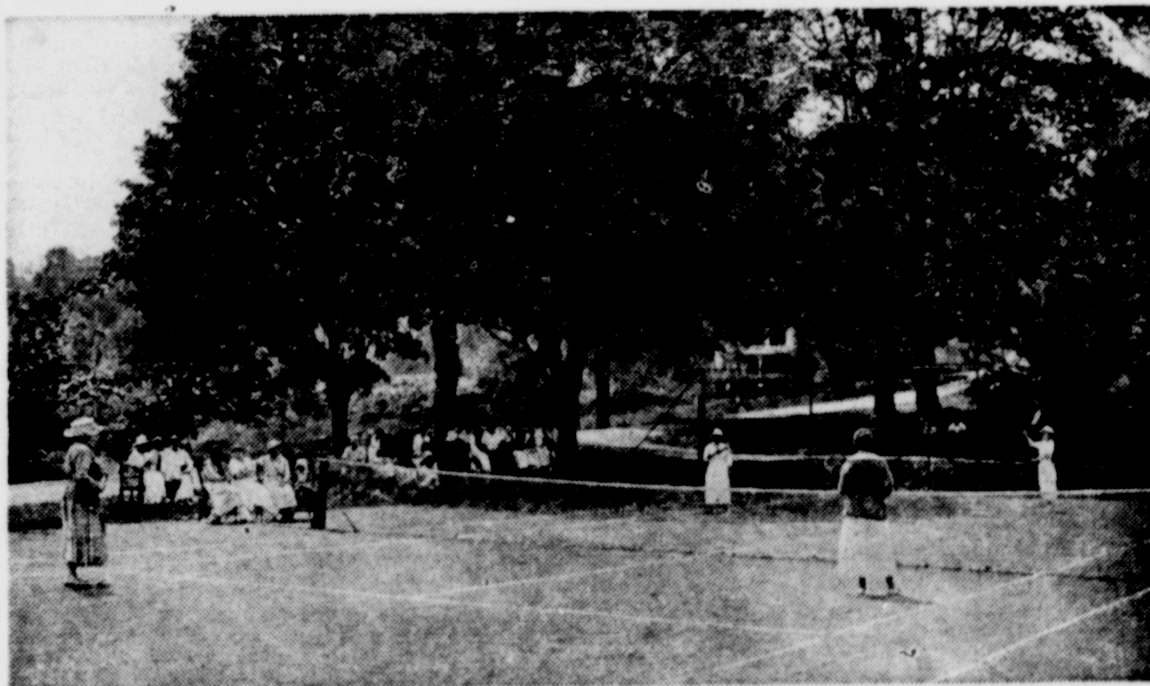

That was Green Kill Inn, old fashioned but beautiful and pleasing to the memory in retrospect — but certainly a part of the vanishing Americana. — TOBIE GEERTSEMA.

Outstanding Male Choruses for Massed Concert Here

ALBERT G. HUNTER Jr.

Mendelssohn Club has named directors and soloists who will participate in the 1968 Mohawk-Hudson Male Chorus Massed Concert scheduled May 18 at Kingston High School by the Mendelssohn group, and featuring as special guests, the U.S. Military Academy (West Point) Glee Club.

"Not only are these male choruses outstanding in the field of male music," the club noted; "they possess highly competent and talented directors each of whom works effectively for the high accomplishments of his chorus." The choruses participating will total approximately 200 voices.

Directors taking part in the Massed Concert include Curtice White Jr., directing the IBM Male Chorus of Poughkeepsie; Donald Fellows of Saugerties leading the Catskill Glee Club of Catskill; Willard H. McNary directing the Euterpe Club of Poughkeepsie; and Anton Acqueno directing the Amphion Club of Newburgh.

The West Point Fourth Class Glee Club, the special featured guest group of the program will be under the leadership of CWO John P. Cockrane, music director and Major Leroy D. Hammond, officer-in-charge. The choral performance of the Military Academy group and its special program participation are highlights toward what is expected to be an outstanding Hudson Valley Massed Chorus presentation.

Guest Directors

Guest directors also include Brian Steeves and Lee Herrington, both of Ulster County. Steeves, assistant director of the Mendelssohn Club, and a member of the music department of Kingston City School Consolidated, will direct the opening number of the massed group. Herrington, musical director at Rondout Valley Central School, will lead the brass accompaniment provided by the RVCS Band's brass group.

The Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, as host organization and sponsor of the Massed Chorus Concert, will perform in the massed group under the leadership of the club's director Albert G. Hunter, Jr.

Hunter, known throughout the Hudson Valley as a pianist, orchestra leader, accompanist, and choral conductor is a native of Poughkeepsie. His musical education and training included Juilliard School of Music and many special teachers. At Juilliard he majored in piano and also studied counterpoint and composition with Aurelio Giorni, a pupil of Chopin's protégé, Sgambote, who passed on Chopin's fingering. He studied five years with Hester Nichols of the University of Vermont, accompanied John Nichols, vocal instructor at Vassar College, and won a 2-year piano scholarship at the University of Vermont. Hunter has given piano recitals which include performances at Town Hall, New York City, and Jordan Hall, Boston. He has served as church organist for the First Baptist Church, Poughkeepsie; teaches at Millbrook School for Boys, Millbrook, and The Barlow School, Amenia. Hunter has served as director of the Poughkeepsie Community Mixed Chorus for 18 years, and direct of Kingston's Mendelssohn Club for several seasons.

Tickets for the 200 voice Massed Chorus Concert may be purchased from all members of the Mendelssohn Club of Kingston, or by directly contacting Mendelssohn Club president, Edward L. Sprute, 3 Clifton Terrace; club secretary, Charles A. Selzo, Summit Avenue; or concert chairman Charles Talheur of Kingston.

Television

If you're a rabid fan of Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea, Cowboy in Africa, The Rat Patrol or Andy Griffith, prepare yourself to bid these programs adieu. They're all scheduled to go off the air this fall, as are The Monkees, The Danny Thomas Show, I Spy, The Invaders, Good Morning World and The Second Hundred Years. Also slated to be axed are Run for Your Life, Garrison's Gorillas, Cimarron Strip and Tarzan.

There's good news for TV movie watchers, however. ABC, at least, has lined up some fairly fine films for the future, including Dr. Strangelove, The Cardinal, The Agony and the Ecstasy, and The Carpetbaggers.

As for the immediate present, there are a few things to cheer about. Tonight's ABC special, "The Singers," has much of the flavor of this past season's Telephone Hour excursions into the private and professional lives of different artists. The subjects this evening are two appealing young ladies standing on different levels of the ladder to success and telling how they got where they are and how they intend to go further. That would be the talented Aretha Franklin and Gloria Loring. Miss Loring, whose mother was a nightclub singer, was discovered by TV on The Merv Griffith Show. Miss Franklin, whose father was a minister, used his choir as her first stage.

The Devil's Back

If for no other reason save its intriguing title, we'll be watching "Nothing Goes Over the Devil's Back that Don't Buckle Under His Belly" Sunday at 10:30 p.m. on Channel 17. Touted as an inventive and hilarious attempt to probe the range of personal experience in the 1960's, it'll discuss underground advertising, swingers, mature women, partner seekers, and other far-out topics.

Whether you think cats are cool and cuddly or aloof and independent, you'll probably be interested in the NBC special on Tuesday night, May 14, titled "Big Cats, Little Cats." It's another in the series dealing with animals and, with Lorne Greene narrating, will feature a wonderful gentleman who cares for a 19-year-old cat named Flatnose under a proviso in a will, the Long Island Ocelot Club, a mountain lion that lives in an apartment, and a CAT farm consisting of 600 cats who've been abandoned on the farmer's front lawn.

Two other programs of more than unusual interest this coming week: "Will the Real Norman Mailer Please Stand Up?" to be seen Wednesday, May 15 at 9 p.m. on Channel 17, a significant documentary on the writer-protester; and "Secrets," Tad Mosel's play dealing with the invasion of privacy, which CBS Playhouse airs over CBS May 15 and which will star Barry Nelson.

Pure Gold

As for the week just past, what can we say? The Kentucky Derby was an exciting wide-open race for TV viewers what with Dancer's Image coming up from the rear to win handily. But the whole thing went sour when Image was disqualified later in the week. The Ed Sullivan Show took due note of the fact that Irving Berlin's 80th birthday was deserving of tribute and we certainly waxed nostalgic about Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning, White Christmas and God Bless America. We loved Hermione Gingold, who is very funny and very clever, on Camera Three's "Pure Gingold," a series of songs, skits and monologues . . . and we cheered the return of Tiny Tim to Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In. We were intrigued by the ideas and teachings of Krishnamurti as he began a series of talks on Channel 17. "Whether we live in Russia, China, Europe, India or America, human beings all have the same factors of sorrow, of fleeting joys, of fears, of unresolved despairs. We are all caught up in national divisions, religious doctrines . . . and the immense loneliness of modern existence," said the Indian philosopher . . . and we could but agree with him.

And, finally, it took the humor and wit of Edwin Newman to bring all the warring political factions in this election year into a common camp that we could thoroughly enjoy. His playful review of past political techniques, "American Profile: Somehow It Works," figuratively scratched its head at the mystery of how American democracy has been able to survive its political campaigns. Most colorful indeed were the kingmakers of the past.

FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD. Faithful in its adherence to Thomas Hardy's novel, this remarkably beautiful (in that it offers a breathtaking vision of the English countryside and a view of 19th-Century life) film version of the book is rural in its setting.

Generally considered to be Hardy's greatest love story, it has Julie Christie as Bathsheba Everdene, the emotional, headstrong heroine who so deeply affects the lives of three totally dissimilar men. Alan Bates plays the foreman of her farm, a man of vast strength and dignity, deprived through misfortune of his own flocks and fields, but content to work for her and to love her, even though his love is unrequited.

Peter Finch is the neighboring gentleman farmer, tormented with the desire to marry her, and she toys with the idea of accepting him. But it is not until she meets a bold grenadier, played by Terence Stamp, that a sweeping passion overwhelms her. The interplay of turbulent feeling among these four people stands out against the placid life and humor of the rustic villagers, as the romantic drama unfolds in the leisurely literary fashion of its time. Perhaps that's just the trouble. We wonder if any film based on a book written in 1874 would be capable of stirring more than polite, antiquarian interest today.

We wanted to like it more than we did as we watched it at the Community Theatre here, where it's playing through next Tuesday. Certainly the book's broad vision was well preserved, the bucolic speech fascinating, the countryside captured in all its greenery. But, somehow, with the introduction of each character, we recognized him by type and knew immediately what would be the outcome of his interactions with the others in the story. Everything was just too predictable, in spite of the simple beauty of the physical production of the film.

And there was just too much melodrama to wade through in spite of the fact that director John Schlesinger displayed rare good sense in alternating his stars with a brilliant cast of minor players who serve as a Greek chorus in tragicomic peasant roles. It was a Hardy-like thing to do, for the novelist's books remind readers of Greek tragedy in their sturdy, gloomy, classic construction.

IN COLD BLOOD. Truman Capote's detailed account of a brutal set of murders and the subsequent tracking down of the killers has been transposed to the screen in masterful style by director Richard Brooks and a cast as able as it is talented. The tense step by step enactment of the tragedy begins with a casual introduction to the victims, a respected, comfortable Kansas farm family named Clutter.

The killers are two ex-convicts, Dick Hickock and Perry Smith (played by Scott Wilson and Robert Blake, respectively) who have planned to rob the Clutters and leave "no witnesses." This is strong stuff and the audience follows their preparations and the senseless execution of the crime; then their desperate flight after they discover that instead of the big haul they had expected, the bestial venture has netted them only forty dollars.

Through their talk, actions and attitudes and with flashbacks to boyhood, the two hoodlums are characterized in depth. Dick is a lustful, lying, conscienceless smoothie. Perry, on the other hand, has a creative mind and a tendency toward soul searching. But his personality has been warped by his tempestuous childhood. It is Dick who coolly masterminds the evil plot, deliberately choosing the hesitant Perry as his accomplice, because he senses the latent instinct to kill that seethes beneath the surface.

As did Capote's non-fiction novel, the film shuttles between the fleeing pair and the dogged efforts of law officers to discover their identity and bring them to justice.

There are terrifying images in this excellent quasidocumentary—images which send shivers down the spine while moving the viewer to ponder the random violence of our age. The hideousness of the engrossing story is frightening in its adherence to the original truth that innocent people were the prey of subhuman psychopaths. But there is social illumination, too, and the vivid portrayals turned in by the cast horrify without sensationalizing.

We recommend it highly and urge you to see it currently at the Mayfair Theatre here in all its total brilliance.

ELVIRA MADIGAN. This romantic, exquisitely photographed film, set in 18th century Sweden, is currently playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. Its story concerns a young army officer who deserts family and career for an appealing young circus performer.

Such a short synopsis, however, ill prepares the viewer for the delicate air of the movie. Carefree and absorbed in one another, the officer and his beautiful performer, begin their runaway life together by existing on their modest resources in the meadows, woodlands and shores of Scandinavia. But the soldier, unprepared by his high birth and military career, and fearful of recognition, cannot find work to support them. Their flight from reality and responsibility loses even more of its magic when, from time to time, their identity is discovered and they must wander on.

Lipstick and Love

The most kissable lips in America will be found at Palisades Amusement Park, N. J. this spring and summer.

In keeping with the love generation, Palisades has announced that the Palisades is distributing free 26,000 lipsticks in 17 different shades free to women and girls upon the purchase of a "thrill" ride book.

"It's serving a double purpose," said spokesman, "for it's not only in keeping with the love generation, but it's also in keeping with America's beautification program."

ALAN BATES, as the sheepfarmer, Gabriel Oak, gives Julie Christie, in the role of Bathsheba Everdene, a lesson in playing the flute in one of the more delightful scenes from "Far From the Madding Crowd." MGM's big-scale screen version of Thomas Hardy's famous novel now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre through May 14.

Slowly, inexorably their funds run out and they must subsist on roots and berries. Confronted with an impossible situation, they realize there is no future for them apart or together, and the tragic story moves gently to its inevitable conclusion. The charm of the leading players (newcomer Pia Degermark and Tommy Berggren), the haunting Mozart score, and the fusion of exquisite color and sensitive imagination heighten the effect of this deeply touching idyll and make this film one of the great ones. SIDNEY POITIER GETS a firm handclasp from Spencer Tracy, as Katherine Houghton looks on. Scene is from "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," the integrated hearts and flowers film now playing at the Orpheum in Saugerties. Katharine Hepburn won this year's Oscar for Best Actress for her role in the movie, all about the daughter of white liberal parents, who arrives home with a Negro fiance in tow.

SIDNEY POITIER investigates a crime he is accused of committing in "In the Heat of the Night," currently on the outdoor screen at the 9W Drive-in here. Now in re-release, "Heat" won five Academy Awards including Best Picture and Best Actor for Rod Steiger, who co-stars as the southern bigot who arrests Poitier, then has to work with him when the Negro turns out to be a police officer. On the double bill at the 9W is the very funny "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," also a re-release.

For Theatre Goers

MOTELY BUNCH OF SERVANTS, all recruited from barn, plow and stable yard to run a country house as an "inn" for the night, includes Gene Nye as Diggory, Paul Panish as Roger, and Robert Dixon as Dick. Actors are in the cast of "She Stoops to Conquer," third production of the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre at Woodstock Playhouse. Audiences can still enjoy the mad machinations of the rollicking farce on the following dates: May 12, 25 and 31 and June 2. "She Stoops" is the classic comedy of mistaken identity by Oliver Goldsmith and theatre statistics prove it is one of the most popular plays in the English language and has been since 1773.

Whimsical Evening

Night in Asia Minor

The Woodstock Artists Association is planning a fun-filled and unusual evening of exotic food and entertainment as a prelude to its 49th summer season. Whimsically called "A Major Night In Asia Minor" the production will be drawing on local entertainers for most of its impact.

There will be songs and dances, both serious and comic, a background of authentic Greek and Turkish music, decorated tables for the guests, free beverages, and a mysterious "talent contest" yet to be announced.

The program is slated for Saturday, May 18 at 8:30. Tickets are available from the Artists Association, and the number to be sold is limited to 100. Response has already been brisk, so interested parties are urged to write in for advance tickets.

'Summer Idyl' Wins at OCCC

A Beacon photographer was a double winner in Orange County Community College's second annual photo competition and show which opened Tuesday in the college's Harriman Hall gallery, Middletown.

Judges awarded Renato C. Pomatti of 1 Dogwood Lane, Beacon, first prize in the color print category for his pastoral scene entitled "Summer Idyl," and second prize in black-and-white competition for a sepia print, "Portrait of a Fence."

First prize in black-and-white photography went to Joseph P. Murphy of 18 Hornbeck Ridge, Poughkeepsie, for his reverse print of a young woman, called "Night."

A. C. Wright Jr. of Walden, the winner of the single first prize in last year's OCCC competition, was awarded second prize in the color print category for his untitled seashore scene of a driftwood tree.

More than 100 photos were entered in the open competition. Judges were Donald V. Sinnock, coordinator of audio-visual services for OCCC; Hugh M. McMullen, president of Newburgh Camera Club; Manny Fuchs, chief photographer of the Times Herald-Record; and Ralph Aiello, city editor of The Evening News.

For Theatre Goers

MOTELY BUNCH OF SERVANTS, all recruited from barn, plow and stable yard to run a country house as an "inn" for the night, includes Gene Nye as Diggory, Paul Panish as Roger, and Robert Dixon as Dick. Actors are in the cast of "She Stoops to Conquer," third production of the Hudson Valley Repertory Theatre at Woodstock Playhouse. Audiences can still enjoy the mad machinations of the rollicking farce on the following dates: May 12, 25 and 31 and June 2. "She Stoops" is the classic comedy of mistaken identity by Oliver Goldsmith and theatre statistics prove it is one of the most popular plays in the English language and has been since 1773.

Whimsical Evening

Night in Asia Minor

The Woodstock Artists Association is planning a fun-filled and unusual evening of exotic food and entertainment as a prelude to its 49th summer season. Whimsically called "A Major Night In Asia Minor" the production will be drawing on local entertainers for most of its impact.

There will be songs and dances, both serious and comic, a background of authentic Greek and Turkish music, decorated tables for the guests, free beverages, and a mysterious "talent contest" yet to be announced.

The program is slated for Saturday, May 18 at 8:30. Tickets are available from the Artists Association, and the number to be sold is limited to 100. Response has already been brisk, so interested parties are urged to write in for advance tickets.

'Summer Idyl' Wins at OCCC

A Beacon photographer was a double winner in Orange County Community College's second annual photo competition and show which opened Tuesday in the college's Harriman Hall gallery, Middletown.

Judges awarded Renato C. Pomatti of 1 Dogwood Lane, Beacon, first prize in the color print category for his pastoral scene entitled "Summer Idyl," and second prize in black-and-white competition for a sepia print, "Portrait of a Fence."

First prize in black-and-white photography went to Joseph P. Murphy of 18 Hornbeck Ridge, Poughkeepsie, for his reverse print of a young woman, called "Night."

Workshops at Group 212 to Run The Gamut of Intermedia Ideas

Nothing less than a current anthology of intermedia ideas will be offered this season at Group 212, the well publicized arts center on 212, Saugerties. In true innovative style, Group 212 will open its full-time workshops to area residents this year, including one workshop which will offer a thorough introduction to film-making.

Film instructor Maurice Amar heads up this workshop and, as the founder of the Movie Subscription Group of New York City, he is eminently qualified to do so, having conducted the Southampton College Film Workshop last year. Trained at the Institute des Hautes Etudes Cinematographiques and the Ecole National de Photo et Cinematographie in Paris, Amar has also worked in the British film industry.

His films are in major collections including the American Federation of Arts, the State University of New York, and the New York City Council of the Arts. Students attracted to his course here will receive training in basic and subtle cinema technique, and in how to produce their own films. They will also take field trips to the National Film Board of Canada, 20th Century Fox, and Underground film centers.

Other 212 workshops open to enrollment include: painting, sculpture, serigraphy and photo silk screen printing, electronic music, mime, dance and expanded theatre.

Courses will run for six and 12 weeks beginning June 15 and July 27 and ending Sept. 7. Information on tuition per workshop and other questions may be obtained by writing: Registrar, Group 212, P. O. Box 96, Woodstock, N. Y. 12498, and advising your area of interest.

ASL Summer School Reopening

The long-running Art Students League Summer School will open this year in Woodstock on Monday, June 3. The opening brings a new addition to the staff of artist-instructors in Woodstock in the person of Richard V. Goetz.

There'll be an innovative "first" on the art colony campus this summer. The League is introducing an evening class in Woodstock — a class meeting five nights a week in Life Drawing and Sketching in various media.

This class, to be held in July and August, will be headed by Woodstock artist Arnold Blanch. Outside of the Blanch sessions, everything will be scheduled much the same as last year. In June Robert Angeloch and Arnold Blanch will give morning classes. They will be joined in July by Bruce Dorfman, Richard Goetz and Walter Plate.

The summer school will continue to August 28 and the catalogue is now available at the League.

In Spanish & German

Things were very Spanish and very German over on the Vassar College campus at Poughkeepsie last Thursday. At the same time that Volkmar Sander was appearing in Taylor Hall that evening to lecture in German, German Bleiberg was reading some of his recent poems in Spanish Chicago Hall.

Sander, who's a professor of German and chairman of the German department at New York University, lectured in German on "Bertolt Brecht's Documentary Theatre" for all area residents interested. Dr. Sander was an assistant professor of German at Vassar from 1958 to 1963; earlier taught at Florida Southern College and in Frankfurt, Germany. He holds a Ph. D. degree from the University of Frankfurt and is the author of numerous publications, including a new book, "The Fascination of Evil."

The poetry reading was in honor of Pilar de Madariaga, professor of Spanish as well as a recognized Spanish poet, read some of his recent poems in Spanish, accompanied by translation into English.

Miss de Madariaga will retire next month after teaching at Vassar for 31 years. A native of Madrid, she taught sciences in Spain. She holds the degree of Licenciada de Quimicas from Madrid University, the M.A. from Vassar, and a doctorate in Modern Languages from Middlebury Language School, where she has also taught.

Bleiberg, too, has a degree (Ph.D.) from the University of Madrid and has taught there and at Notre Dame and Vanderbilt Universities. He has been at Vassar for two years; previously served as professor of romance languages at the University of Massachusetts and as a director of the Four College Program of Hispanic Studies. The author of several books of poetry, he has also edited a number of dictionaries and anthologies.

An Arts Festival

The Second Annual Arts Festival of the Rensselaer County Council for the Arts will take place Saturday, June 8, from 1 to 6 p.m. in Troy's Washington Park and at the Arts Center adjoining the Park.

Assemblyman Neil Kelleher has been named honorary chairman and will serve as one of the masters of ceremony of the event.

The Troy Arts Guild will have charge of the art exhibit to be hung on the park fence. Mrs. William De Pietro, president, has announced that any interested persons may enter. Qualified judges will rate the paintings and prizes will be given by the Troy Retail Council, who is helping to promote the festival.

The council has planned a display of the work of area craftsmen. Those who wish may offer their works for sale.

Church and civic organizations will have booths for the display of interesting items and for the sale of national food specialties.

Entertainment including groups, as well as a puppet show by Mrs. Frances Emery will be of special interest to children.

The Washington Park Association will feature an open house tour of some of the old Victorian homes around the park, once Troy's most exclusive residential area.

Individuals or organizations, within a 100 mile radius including Ulster County, interested in taking part in the festival in any capacity should write the chairman, in care of the Arts Center, for further details.

Spring Concert

The Orchestra In Progress, will give a Spring Concert on Tuesday, May 14, at Champaign Hall, Marist College in Poughkeepsie. The concert, which will begin at 8:30 is open to the public. Admission will be free.

Miss Diane Hermann, violinist, who was the winner of the orchestra's recent auditions, will be the evening's soloist. She will be featured in Beethoven's "ROMANCE," No. 2, Op. 50 for violin and orchestra.

The program will also include sections from Hayn's "LE MIDI" and Beethoven's "EROICA." Claude Monteux will be the conductor.

Kingston Girl With 'Singers'

The College Singers of State University of New York College at Cortland have completed their most successful season which included a New York City debut at Town Hall. A Kingston student, soprano Linda Munson, of 53 Brewster Street, is featured with the group.

The mixed choir of 70 voices presented a spring concert on campus recently after returning from a tour of the metropolitan New York area. The Town Hall concert earlier was arranged as a centennial event during the college's 100th anniversary year. Other tour performances were sung at the United Nations, First Presbyterian Church at Baldwin, L. I., Interchurch Center and Church of St. Paul and St. Andrew, both in New York.

The Singers performance at Town Hall won such an enthusiastic response from the audience that conductor Guy B. Webb lead the group in two encore numbers before leaving the stage. Webb, assistant professor of music at Cortland, has studied at the Julliard School of Music, Columbia University and University of Illinois.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

Housewife Shrugs Off Mink

"She may have wall-to-wall mink," as the newspaper says. But if she needs it to warm her toes on a cold morning, then she's definitely not the gal who has everything. They're wrong there. Now I don't have her mink rug, nor her sable coat, but it so happens I am one up on Miss Millions; I don't have cold toes in the morning, any morning. Because I have electric heating in my house, and it's at the ready at any time of the day or night, every day and night of the year."

Chalk up one, in the one-upmanship game, for the young housewife who held a tight rein on the budget for five years to get "our new house" out of the blueprint stage.

But the five years were also, "lucky for us after all. We visited around, checked and compared . . . found that just on the basis of comfort alone, electric heating was a must. Even if we had to splurge on the cost; but, as it happens, now even the price is right. Electric heating, by the time we were ready for it, had already dropped price-wise to the competitive. And it's expected to go lower in the coming years. Our electric heating is expected to last and last, and remain in excellent condition. You can't say as much for the old styles on any point," concludes Mrs. No-Cold-Toes.

Her electric heating system is the type with thermostats in every room and she elects to keep the bathroom always at 80 degrees, the other rooms at 72. It's been figured by heating experts that in a properly insulated house, electric heat will vary no more than half a degree from thermostat setting even at ceiling height, no matter how cold the weather gets outside.

And the gal with the electric heating system has one more advantage over the mink rug set, in addition to no cold toes. Her electric heating system doesn't require professional seasonal cleaning. (Few or no moving parts to get out of order . . . and it doesn't create dirt).

QUESTION BOX

Question: I've read somewhere that the largest building in Chicago has electric heating. I got the idea that it was an apartment house, but my husband says "No", it's an office building.

Answer: It is both the largest apartment building and Chicago's new 100 story office building. Incidentally, the newest luxury high riser in New York City is also electrically heated . . . with individually controlled units in each apartment.

Question: Where can I write for information about comparative costs of electric heat and other types. We're considering converting.

Answer: Your utility company is the right contact for a starter. Many dealers have excellent background information and literature which can be helpful, too.

As you probably know, nothing can touch electric heating for evenness of warmth and ease of operation. And electricity is the only 100% efficient fuel, so you get your money's worth from the outset. But you might like to know, that the coming years will show that electricity will be the most used fuel and the one with the lowest cost. So the sooner you install it, the greater your benefits; you get superior heating from the outset and you'll be ready for any and every rate drop as it comes along.

Question: Is there any kind of electric heating we can get which does not require rewiring?

Answer: Not unless your house already has the right heavy duty wiring and sufficient circuits. If you don't have the right wiring (and sufficient insulation) you should do something about it. And the sooner the better. You'll find the costs of the wiring itself, and the installation of electric heating surprisingly moderate. If by chance your insulation is weak, that certainly could run up your conversion bill. But the sooner you act, the more money you'll save. Because that portion of the job is actually a building expenditure heated . . . with individually . . . and those costs have a history of climbing steadily. Why don't you talk it over with your electrical contractor . . . and consider doing it according to Gold Medallion standards. You would then get a certification (mighty valuable if you sell later).

Question: Where can I write for information about comparative costs of electric heat and other types. We're considering converting.

Answer: Your utility company is the right contact for a starter. Many dealers have excellent background information and literature which can be helpful, too.

As you probably know, nothing can touch electric heating for evenness of warmth and ease of operation. And electricity is the only 100% efficient fuel, so you get your money's worth from the outset. But you might like to know, that the coming years will show that electricity will be the most used fuel and the one with the lowest cost. So the sooner, you install it, the greater your benefits; you get superior heating from the outset and you'll be ready for any and every rate drop as it comes along.

Question: Is there any kind of electric heating we can get which does not require rewiring?

Answer: Not unless your house already has the right heavy duty wiring and sufficient circuits. If you don't have the right wiring (and sufficient insulation) you should do something about it. And the sooner the better. You'll find the costs of the wiring itself, and the installation of electric heating surprisingly moderate. If by chance your insulation is weak, that certainly could run up your conversion bill. But the sooner you act, the more money you'll save. Because that portion of the job is actually a building expenditure . . . and those costs have a history of climbing steadily. Why don't you talk it over with your electrical contractor . . . and consider doing it according to Gold Medallion standards. You would then get a certification (mighty valuable if you sell later).
